Blank Life Path Calculation Charts.	133

Introduction

Your own Life Path (or life purpose), is perhaps one of the most valuable pieces of knowledge you could own. If you know what you are supposed to achieve, and what talents, skills and other assets you were born with to help you achieve it you would have a much easier time:

- finding direction
- determining and completing goals
- considering relationship partners
- assessing future plans
- deciding on what direction to take
- choosing a career path to success

The purpose of this book is to teach you how to calculate your Life Path (a number from 3 to 55) and to provide you a resource for looking up your Life Path for a detailed description. Most of the Life Path's listed here also include a list of famous people who share your Life Path number. This is important and interesting to know for reasons that I will discuss later in this book.

Throughout the book I'll do my best to explain the deeper meanings of the numbers that are listed here. This book includes detailed examples and over seven different methods to calculate your own Life Path number. Blank charts are also provided to help you personally calculate your Life Path and the Life Path numbers of friends/family for further exploration and comparison.

I know that you too will find this information valuable and positive in helping you discover and explore your own life purpose. I wish you success in reaching your own goals, inspiring others, and for a life full of positive, fulfilling and blessed relationships.

Sincerely,

Brett A. Simpson

1. Understanding your Life Purpose

What is a Life Path?

Finding your life purpose can be a long, drawn out, and sometimes a frustrating search for the keys to your own personal path. Those keys will unlock the treasure that you hold inside. To unlock that treasure is one of the most important parts of achieving whatever we wish: accumulating wealth, finding a relationship, and maneuvering our way through life. If you are not fulfilling your own purpose your life may seem like it is full of broken dreams and unfulfilled hopes and wishes.

Exploring your life path is a valuable lesson in learning your own unique way in this life. Finding out all of the details of your life path, is something that we should all undertake at some point in our lives. Through the ancient science of Numerology, we are all able to determine and follow our own path with a simple and successful formula that anyone can calculate. I will personally show you the different methods for doing that in this book, as well as describe the purpose of each of over 50 different life paths.

How does the Life Path determine your life purpose?

When you are born, your soul knows what is best for you to achieve in this lifetime, and even, how to go about achieving it. Because of this knowledge your soul selects the date of birth to assist you in achieving the goals laid out for you in this lifetime.

Do you see yet how important and valuable it can be for you to find out what this number is? If you know this 'purpose' or 'intent' for your life it makes it so much easier for you to follow through on the goals you are to achieve, and the methods for achieving them. It is very important for everyone to know this number, as a means of discovering their inner nature, and their purpose in life. Use this book as a resource to calculate friends and family Life Paths.

Why is it significant?

The Life Path number provides you with a method of calculating the best way for you to go about achieving things in this life. It's as simple as that! The importance of this number cannot and should not be neglected. After studying many Numerology Charts (a chart is an entire Reading of all the numbers in a name/birthdate) and my own personal chart for many years I feel that the Life Path is one of the most important numbers in the chart. Knowing all of the numbers in your chart (the ones that have value in being calculated) is also very important.

2. Calculating Your Life Path

There are many ways to calculate a Life Path number. What I would like to do is show you which method I prefer and why. All calculations will result in the same one digit final number; however, they may result in different double digit numbers such as 11, or 47, or 56 instead of the single digit number of 2.

Numerological calculations and how they work

First let's take one step back and talk a little bit about how a numerological calculation is made. When numerological numbers are calculated (totaled) they are frequently reduced to their smallest (single digit) number, or if a number ends up being 11, or 22 then that number is usually not reduced because it is referred to as a master number.

Pythagoras first indicated master numbers 2500 years ago. There is currently some controversy regarding master numbers and their importance, but we'll leave that discussion for another book.

To complete a numerological calculation then, if for example you end up with a number 43, you would add the 4+3 and end up with 7 as the final number. That number may also be displayed as 43/7 (which in numerological shorthand means 43 – which reduces to 7). If a number added up to 47, you would add the 4+7 and get 11, but because the number is 11 or 22 (a master number we talked about above), you would not reduce that number further. That number would be displayed as 47/11/2 – to indicate that the number 47, it adds to 11, and that the final single digit number equals 2. Some numerologists may also display 47/11 without the final 2 indicating that 11 is the number being interpreted.

The dangers of single-digit reducing methods

Many numerologists still recommend reducing all numbers to a single digit number 1-9, and keeping 11 and 22 as valid master numbers. Other numerologists use the double-digit number and even triple-digit numbers. I strongly recommend interpreting at least a double-digit number.

The reason I recommend using double-digits is that it is much more important to do a numerological interpretation of 11 if we know that the numbers that formed the 11 were 47, and they were not another number, for example 38. This becomes extremely important when you learn that 47 interpreted numerologically indicates a spiritual leaning facilitated by responsibility to something, or someone in a practical way. On the other hand 38 indicates a drive to succeed in a material way by expressing oneself creatively.

I think you can see how different these two digit numbers (47, and 38) are interpreted numerologically and how that interpretation is completely lost if you do not know you had a 47, or 38 to begin with, but instead only have the number 11 to work with. For these reasons it is best to get the most accurate double-digit number you can before reducing further, and then to interpret that double-digit number correctly. The reason that I use double-digits (instead of triple-digits) when calculating the Life Path is because by using the Pythagorean method described below, it is only possible to have a maximum Life Path number of 55.

How to calculate your own Life Path using the Pythagorean Method

Now that we know the basics of numerological reduction, let me show you exactly how the Life Path is determined from the date of birth. You must use the actual date of birth that is indicated on the birth certificate for this calculation. Write out your date of birth as you normally would, for Americans that would be December 22, 1957, but write out the date as numbers for example 12/22/1957.

Now remember that we reduce numbers to get a numerological calculation. In this example we would start with 3 (which comes from $1 + 2 = 3$ for December). To this we add the date of 22 (not reduced because it is a master number of either 11 or 22). To this we add the reduced numerological digits of the year 1957. Practice with your calculations on this one. To reduce 1957 we add $1 + 9 + 5 + 7 = 22$. Again we do not reduce the 22 since that is a master number of either 11 or 22. Our final Life Path number then is the addition of the reduced Month, Date and Year of birth which in this example would be $3 + 22 + 22 = 47$.

I've laid out the calculation below to make it easier to see how it is done.

Date of Birth: December 22, 1957

Month = $12 = 1 + 2 =$ 3
 Date = 22 + 22
 Year = $1957 = 1 + 9 + 5 + 7 =$ + 22

=====
 Total = 47 displayed numerologically as 47/11

Other methods and how to calculate them

The calculation method described above is often known as the Pythagorean method – it means that Pythagoras developed it. Remember that Pythagoras did his work 2500 years ago and that he was working with information passed down from sages and mystics that originally created numerology – most likely this occurred from 25,000 to 50,000 years ago!

The method described above is one of many methods that can be used to make this calculation. I will briefly cover all of the other calculation methods that I know of below. Feel free to use the method that you are most comfortable with, perhaps you will find value in interpreting all of the different calculation methods and looking them up in the following section of this book. I do want to tell you why I feel that the Pythagorean method is superior to other methods, and I will discuss that in the following section of this chapter.

Using a new example of December 21, 1964, below you will see 7 different methods of making a Life Path calculation. Note that the examples do not include the above Pythagorean method.

1.)Horizontal method (adds together all the numbers horizontally)

$12/21/1964 = 1 + 2 + 2 + 1 + 1 + 9 + 6 + 4 = 26 / 8$

2.)Month/Day/Year method (adds unreduced month and day to horizontal reduced year)

(month) $12 +$ (date) $21 +$ (year reduced $1964=1+9+6+4=20$) $20 = 12 + 21 + 20 = 53 / 8$

3.)Month/Day/Year method (with reduction of date and horizontal reduced year)

(month) $12 +$ (date= $2+1=3$) $3 +$ (year reduced $1964=1+9+6+4=20$) $20 = 12 + 3 + 20 = 35 / 8$

4.)Month/Day/Year method (with reduction of date & month and horizontal reduced year)

(month $1+2=3$) $3 +$ (date= $2+1=3$) $3 +$ (year reduced $1964=1+9+6+4=20$) $20 = 3 + 3 + 20 = 26 / 8$

5.)Month/Day/Year method (with reduction of date, month and complete reduced year)

(month $1+2=3$) $3 +$ (date= $2+1=3$) $3 +$ (year reduced $1964=1+9+6+4=20=2+0=2$) $2 = 3 + 3 + 2 = 8$

6.)Modified Month/Day/Year method (year is reduced partially, month/date are not)

(month) $12 +$ (date) $21 +$ (year reduced $1964= 1+9=10 + 64 = 74$) $74 = 12 + 21 + 74 = 107 / 8$

7.)Vertical method (2 digit number from year, date, month are added without reduction)

$12/21/1964 = 12+21+($ year split into 2 digit numbers= $19 + 64$) $19+64 = 12 + 21 + 19 + 64 = 116/8$

Why the Pythagorean method is recommended

The Pythagorean method adds together all three numerological periods of your life to arrive at the number of your Life Path. These three periods are used for further calculations that involve your date of birth and they are used to arrive at other numerological calculations in your life such as the Pinnacles, and Challenges (or specific periods and the unique challenge you may face during that period).

Because the Pythagorean method adds together the three periods of your life, from the base numbers of each period, in the same way that those numbers are calculated when your Pinnacles and Challenges are calculated it leads to a pure calculation which is more like you. That is why I feel you should use the Pythagorean method when making your Life Path calculation.

Which method should I use and why?

I strongly suggest that you find one method, learn that method and stick with it, as it will make remembering how to do the calculation that much easier. That being said, and after having shown you nearly every other method that is available, I will again say that I recommend the Pythagorean method over all others since that method uses the actual periods within your life that are used for other calculations in your overall numerological chart.

It makes sense that if you use those numbers in one way in one area of your numerological chart that you would use them in another place in your chart in the same way. This is called consistency and is something that I prefer to have working with me when doing a Numerology Reading. If you mix and match different methods throughout the reading it may lead to an inconsistent reading throughout, and result in a far less productive and less interpretive reading.

3. Life Path Numbers and Their Meanings

Below is a reference list of every Pythagorean Life Path number that is possible. After calculating the Life Path of anyone you know, you can look him or her up in this listing to determine their life's purpose. These are summaries of Life Paths from The Dreamtime, including all of the text would make this a very large book! The summaries here are very useful. For a detailed double-digit Life Path have a look at the Professional Reading offered by The Dreamtime that provides even more detail. What will famous birthdays tell me?

Birthdays of famous people hold great insight for anyone looking at their own Life Path. By looking at those famous people who share your Life Path number you can identify aspects of your personality that are like those you share it with.

Life Path 3

As an essential 3 your primary purpose in this life is to learn to express yourself fully and to work through your emotional affectability as you follow your unique path. You must learn to express yourself throughout this life. You will encounter many lessons to help you learn this valuable lesson.

To express yourself fully you must learn to value your emotions and feelings and to bring those into direct contact with others you are working with. You will come to accept and honor your own feelings and express them sincerely as you also encourage others to do the same. Remember that each word and feeling that you make use of effects the overall tone of the message that you are relaying. Try to reflect positively on each issue and make that known, otherwise be careful and limit what you do say so that you are not just verbalizing for it's own sake.

Your emotions and deep feelings can be seen and felt, even from a distance! As you grow into this life you will overcome any shyness you may have and eventually you may even enjoy being a featured speaker or talking to large groups of people.

Assets

In your most positive sense you are careful and sensitive in your communication with others. You have a charm and sensibility about you that attracts others like a magnet. As you reach out to others, you may have learned to protect your own inner emotions and to stop from being affected by them.

You have mastered the art of communicating and of showing your own deep feelings with sincerity and integrity. You are happy and joyful in following your own true path.

Talents

Your highly skilled expressive nature suits you to positions that allow you to communicate freely: jobs such as teacher, nurse or actor/entertainer will suit you best. Your need for feeling the emotions of others and for sharing would also mean that you would enjoy positions such as welfare representative, real estate sales, counselor, and advertising executive. You enjoy traveling too, and any opportunity you may have to meet and enjoy people will provide you with pleasure.

Following the 3 Path

You have come to recognize the best way to truly express yourself without letting the words of others effect you. You are good at sharing and expressing exactly what you feel, but you are careful to not let yourself get caught up in the emotional troubles of those who share with you. This serves to protect you from self-doubt.

You are confident, honest and deeply sincere with your own feelings and this attracts others who see you as charming, caring and vibrant. You follow your own path of giving and thoughtful communication to the ultimate and it brings you great joy and happiness throughout your life.

Your primary purpose as an essential 4 energy is to learn to achieve a secure foundation as you work with patience and perseverance toward completing your life's purpose. You will have some tests in this life; most of them will be of your patience, commitment and perseverance as you pursue a given task.

You will need to be aware that completing an overall goal requires many smaller tasks that you should work on completing first. You will only accomplish your goals by following a clear and non-wavering path that is focused on the completion of each goal and in being aware of these accomplishments before pursuing the next step along the way. Remember to enjoy each step as part of living your true path and you will truly appreciate all of the goals that you complete.

Assets

In your most positive you are patient and persevering, full of ambition and desire to complete your goals. You have learned to break your goals down into steps that are more easily attained and this gives you a sense of security that is unmatched.

Your family life flourishes with your strong sense of responsibility and awareness - others look to you as the pinnacle of integrity, sincerity and dependability. You are joyful in following your true path.

Talents

Your strong sense of creativity, practicality and completion suit you well for positions such as accountant, financial loan officer or banker. Because you believe in strict law and security you may also be attracted to positions in law, government or as a police officer or customs officer.

Following the 4 Path

You have learned when to stop working and have some fun time too! As you have built your life around security and stability you also take the time to share with others and to let them play a part in your intense life as well. This leads to respect from your deep responsibility for others and your caring/humanitarian nature.

As you grow and create a solid reasonable world based on your ideals, you also work hard at accepting kindness from others and in sharing your love and feelings with those around you as you follow your unique path of perseverance, stability and organization.

Life Path 5

Your primary purpose as an essential 5 is to exercise personal freedom and self-discipline as you explore your own unique and personal path in this life. You will come to find personal freedom in your life by learning to depend on yourself as much as you depend on others.

You have a strong need to experience adventure and new things and it may lead you to lose focus from the true aspects of your path: self-discipline, commitment and a strong drive to overcome any obstacle will serve you well as you travel down your path in this life. You will come to learn that the more you can stay focused on your path the easier and more fulfilling it will be.

You may have a fear of commitment: of being locked into one thing. Remember that all things will eventually lead you to the personal freedom that you desire so much. You will come to resonate an energy of self-respect.

Assets

In your most positive aspects you have learned to use your self-discipline and apply it to your imagination for control and power. You focus on one task at a time and this gives you the strength to complete larger goals quickly and easily.

Your artistic skills, knowledge and desire to explore everything are an intense inspiration for those around you and you provide the maturation that they require to find their own freedom. You have found your freedom and you are joyful and happy following your unique path.

Talents

Your extremely clever mind and desire to experience new and interesting things suits you best for positions such as: sales person, inventor, professional mediator or counselor. You are also happy at being in an academic environment as a teacher, professor or researcher. As you narrow your focus you will certainly achieve any goals you set your mind to.

Following the 5 Path

You have learned to enjoy your sense of adventure most by applying self-discipline and self-freedom to find the balance and inner freedom you deserve. When you focus on a problem, you solve it quickly and move on to the next issue.

You have learned that physical desire and indulgence is not the best way for you to achieve your goal, so you have pursued the path of knowledge and creativity as you manifest the ultimate freedom that you search for throughout your life.

Life Path 6

Your primary purpose as an essential 6 is to learn to accept your own values and principles as unique and practical, and to respect your family and close friends for the comfort, consideration and security that they provide. This security is comforting as you work toward fulfilling yourself, serving others and doing good for humankind.

You must remember that when you follow your ideals, they are yours to follow and that others may not be interested in what is best for you. Just as in numerology, every life path has a unique set of highlights and lessons to learn and each one is unique and different. Your unique ideals are good for you, though they may be bad for others.

You will come to learn that judging others based on these ideals is not a good or easy thing to do. Remember that we are all doing our best and that no one is perfect. You must learn to stop applying judgment to those around you and to yourself.

Assets

At your most positive you have learned to accept yourself and others exactly the way they are in this life. This has created a patience and visionary sense that will help you throughout your life path.

You are visionary and full of dreams. You have learned to find the greatest beauty in your close friends and family and this makes you happy. You have a strong determination that leads you through this life toward your own unique path.

Talents

Your great visionary power and deep sense of principle suits you well toward fields such as writer, chef, playwright, scientist or biologist. You especially enjoy working in positions that bring joy to others: florist, interior decorator or artistic fields could also be fulfilling. You seek a sense of beauty in all things and this asset will help you to work through any type of work.

Following the 6 Path

You are very accepting and giving to others in your life. You have learned to love your family and to enjoy their company throughout your life, but you do not let them take advantage of you or demand too much of your time. You are confident in your feelings toward yourself and because of this you are comfortable and without judgment toward others as you continue to follow your path in this life.

Life Path 7

Your primary purpose as an essential 7 are to learn to trust your inner-awareness and knowing to share your knowledge and personal feelings with those around you for the good of the whole. You have a desire toward the within in this life and you will come to find that the best plans and purpose you can find will be to apply the knowledge you find through awareness to teaching or sharing with others.

You may have strong psychic abilities and your intuitive sense will develop into something you come to trust and expect every day. You will eventually use these powers throughout your life and so you must respect them. As you grow you will realize that the knowledge that you have learned and found in risks is not comparable to the truth and wisdom that you can find within yourself by using your intuitive powers.

Assets

In your most positive you have found an inner-trust and knowing that connects you to the defining spirit in all things. This connection is an important and powerful factor in your day-to-day living.

You experience friendship and great trust with those around you and you have gathered a group of close friends to you who love you for the unique person you are. Your highly advanced intellect serves you well also. You have created your own personal awareness and ideals based on principles of goodness and sharing which lead you throughout your life on the path of the mystic.

Talents

Because of your strong analytical and thinking skills, you function best in fields such as writing, physics, philosophy or mathematics. You have many talents, but you never feel completely fulfilled unless you are expressing them toward a higher good for others; this means that you are happier in these type of working environments as a professor, teacher, theologian, or even as a preacher or priest.

Following the 7 Path

You have found trust and an inner awareness in your own intuition and analytical skills. This has created a situation that makes you most happy when you are researching or studying some new idea or method for solving any disharmony that you may become aware of.

You also are aware of the need for others in your life and you take the time to share with others at least once every week. You will come to learn to use your creative and powerful intuitive skills for the good of others and this is when you will truly shine. Others will seek you out and your trust will grow as you follow your path as a mystic thinker.

Life Path 8

As an essential 8 your primary purpose in this life is to accept power, success and affluence as you apply yourself in service toward a higher good for all. You will most likely learn to reach a position of power or success in this life, but first you must come to accept and recognize your own successes for the good and positiveness that they hold.

There may be issues of money, power or control that you will face throughout your life as you learn the lesson of material success. Eventually you will see that your own powers and earning potential are your unique key to achieving the prosperity you need for purchasing tools and acquiring skills for helping others.

Your own success is for the good of others and this helps to drive you on toward a new awareness of your true life purpose. Because of the feelings you have to be in control of others, you will eventually come to lead those around you to the same success. This is not the same as attempting to control those who do not follow your directions or do things the way you do. Remember that all is "as it should be" and that you can lead best by being silent and providing an example for others to follow.

Assets

In your most positive you are successful, powerful and able to receive respect and appreciation from others without any personal feelings or sensitivities. You have a high level of material success too - even though you may not think in that way and the material things that you own are limited.

You are joyful in your abundance and because of this you are in service to helping others achieve the same success you have. The spirit within helps you and you are happy to experience it as well as share it with others.

Talents

Your skills in working with finance and money are extraordinary and any position in this field such as banker, financial analyst, entrepreneur or insurance agent will suit you. You also have a need to be successful and to feel good about your success. A position in a field that brings you this personal integrity is important too: charity organizer, efficiency expert, researcher or hospital administration would be excellent choices.

You have a strong sense of inspiration and originality; you like to create new things and your persistence and courage help you to achieve any goal. You may even have the skills to be an athlete, either professionally or in the artistic fields such as dance or a similar field.

Following the 8 Path

You have learned to be powerful without trying to control others. Your success has inspired you to find higher power and a deep security in the abundance of helping others.

As you grow into your path you will come to expect a richness and sense of pride that you never suspected before. Others will truly look up to you and praise your efforts to accomplish the task at hand. You are well respected and happy as you follow your path of destiny.

Life Path 9

Your primary purpose as an essential 9 is to learn to accept the higher wisdom within yourself and to use that power to provide inspiration for those you work with. You have come into this lifetime with a strong urgency to lead and be of service to others. You will especially be drawn to teaching others and to allowing them to work with you as you attempt to live up to your high ideals and standards that are part of your humanitarian nature.

As you grow and learn you will eventually come to trust in your profound awareness and intuition: one that seems to be committed to a divine service. It is powerful and so you must listen to it. It will mean even more to you as you have come to trust in yourself with a feeling of security and respect.

Realize that you were chosen for this life to be a teacher of wisdom; knowledge you seek will come to you magically. As you follow your path with intent you must learn to be tolerant, accepting, and empathetic with many who will come to you seeking knowledge.

Many people may be drawn to you because of your strong intellectual and intuitive skills and understanding of others. Learn to be an example for them and they will respect and admire you for the actions of truth and love that you exhibit.

Assets

In your most positive aspects you are a true humanitarian who is filled with love and compassion, empathy and understanding for everyone. You are also aware of your own deep intuitive understanding, strength and power for connecting you to the Earth, yourself and to a higher power. You are a visionary and you bring your dreams into reality by letting your compassion, personal integrity and wisdom flow through you as you follow your path of service to others.

Talents

Your strong sense of service and desire to lead others suits you best in fields such as doctor, counselor or personal/financial advisor. You also work well in charitable organizations or as a volunteer coordinator. As you progress to the deepest wisdom available you will share and inspire progress in others through your examples. You learn to search for wisdom and knowledge through the divine source.

Following the 9 Path

You have learned to find your own ideals within yourself, and the sense of integrity and inspiration that you provide for others leads you to fulfillment. You have come to accept everyone's place in this world and the penetrating higher ideals that you seek will allow you to make a difference for others. You will most likely lead or teach others, but even if you do not, you will let your life serve as an example for all.

Life Path 10

As a pure 10/1 your primary purpose is to learn to use your creativity and intuitive skills to bring others together with inspiration and peace as you inspire them by living your life as an example. You initially value your sense of leadership, but you will also learn to value your powerful intuitive skills as you mature.

You have an incredible charm and talent for bringing others together and you will eventually use that power to help you achieve your goals. Before you do that you will have to overcome any feelings of inferiority or insecurity which may occur.

You are a strong creative/intuitive; because of this you will suffer from the criticism and intense comments of others. Try not to let this affect you and trust in your own ambitions, as they are truly evident.

Assets

In your most positive you are an inspiring motivator and leader of others. You have your goals clearly set and your personality attracts others to you for healing and learning.

You provide an example for others to follow rather than let your opinions influence anyone. You do not let the opinions of others bother you. You are confident and secure in your creative abilities and you enjoy working with others to inspire and lead them to their own unique success.

Talents

Your strong leadership skills and highly intuitive and creative mind suit you best for positions in alternative healing, counseling or as a business manager. If you practice your creative gift you may find that you are happy as an artist, landscape designer, or musician. You will lead and receive respect from others as you apply your skills toward service.

Following the 10 Path

You hold value in the opinions of others as you follow your path. Even though you have a strong confidence and philosophy you learn to accept the ways of others who are on their own unique path too. You recognize your intuitive skills as being highly developed and you know how to use them for influencing the good of others and finding peace on Earth as you follow your unique path.

Life Path 11

Your main life purpose as an essential 11 is to learn to use your intense individualism, independence and creativity as you apply yourself toward the principles of higher good that will serve others. You were born with the pure energy of a master number: there were no reduced numbers to form the 11 in your life path. This means that you will face many spiritual trials throughout this lifetime. That is good since it will allow you to grow and prosper as you serve others.

Your primary purpose in this life is one of service to others; however, you must first come to accept your own strong individualistic nature and drive to be a leader. You have a high potential for achievement and it will require you to balance practicality with your idealism, which is prominent.

As you grow and learn to reach your goals the desire for you to teach others will become strong. With your pure 11 energy your talents of working with and inspiring others from a teaching viewpoint will become strong and unavoidable for you. You will be drawn to educate others for the pure joy of what you accomplish rather than for recognition, although you will receive it.

Assets

In your most positive you are busy and active, confident and creative in working toward your true life path. You have established a balanced and joyful life dedicated to the service of those around you, and to your own creativity.

You are strong and have a persistence and endurance to attain any goal. Others find you charming and creative, inspiring and inspirational in your abilities and talent. You are happy and fulfilled, and aware of your own individuality: a true leader and a creative genius.

Talents

Naturally you enjoy positions which let you express your creativity along with your leadership potential. You are most happy as a scientist, explorer or psychiatrist. Because of your desire to teach you will also do well as a professor, counselor, spiritual adviser or healer. Your love of beauty, as an artist and truth seeker suit you for careers such as hair dresser, artist or dance instructor.

Following the 11 Path

You have learned to follow your creativity, as you are inspired and self-assured in all that you do. You have a confidence that leads you, and a natural creative talent that inspires you to new heights.

Your independence and leadership abilities help you to find your path, and your desire to teach and serve others keep you focused on staying on the path you have chosen: one of individuality, creativity and service throughout this lifetime.

Life Path 12

Your primary purpose in this life is to learn to cooperate and share as you express your creativity and emotions while teaching and supporting others as you inspire them to reach for their highest dreams. You have many lessons to learn in his life, but your biggest one is to learn to be cooperative and accepting of others and balance your cooperative nature with your need for self-expression.

You are generally cooperative, though sometimes you may tend to be self-centered. Remember that your uniqueness is what sets you apart and makes you so good at being innovative and ingenious at solving every problem that comes your way. Be careful and wary of being judgmental and critical of others - they are unique and expressive in their own way too.

Your analytical skills are strong, so you will eventually learn to become more emotional in your expression instead of attempting to think a problem away. A peaceful sense of cooperation will pervade over your relationships as you learn to be accepting and emotionally secure.

Assets

In your most positive sense you are creative, innovative and expressive in everything that you do. You are open and honest at being yourself and others look up to you highly. You enjoy working through problems by communicating and you especially like to give praise and offer words of kindness because you know we are all reflections of each other.

Talents

You are very expressive and this means that you are best suited to positions that let you express yourself freely and often: jobs such as writing, advertising or promotion work well for you.

You will always be happy in anything you do as long as you feel like you are inspiring and helping others grow by doing the work that you do. As you persist and learn to accept feedback your confidence will help you achieve any goal.

Following the 12 Path

You have mastered the balance needed between your sensitivity and your creativity. You are learning every day how to be caring without hurting, and as you express yourself openly and purposefully other are aware that your sincerity is honest and real.

You have erased any doubt in your own mind of insecure feelings or self-criticism. Your open, honest, expressive creativity shines as an inspiration for those around you as you pursue your unique path.

Life Path 13

Your main purpose is to learn to express your emotions and creativity to reach your goals one step at a time, as you follow your unique path. Your unique combination of creativity and your need to express yourself allow you to build a foundation of stability. Creatively you may face sensitive issues of self worth and ego.

Do not let the words of others bother you, and learn to be powerful through silence and your action toward others. You will create a harmony that resonates through your being as you persist in expressing your highest creative abilities.

You will learn to establish the stability you require as you grow and mature. Eventually you come to realize that your steady efforts result in more ground gained toward your goals than short periods of intense energy.

Your highly creative skills will not let you down as your confident and expressive personality exposes the successful and secure desire that you learn to make your own. You are good at working on each step until you are finished.

Assets

In your most positive you have created a family and financial base from which to live your life. Others respect you and you have learned to balance your analytical mind with the intuition of your spiritual self.

You are known for completing every task and your honesty and stability provide excellent examples to those around you. Their encouragement and security serve you throughout this lifetime.

Talents

Your varied skills of creativity, expression and intelligence make you a valuable asset in many fields: from real estate to engineering, physician to archeologist. Any type of work that provides you with a chance to communicate and support others, such as coaching or teaching are also good choices. You may have to learn the lesson of patience but eventually you will achieve your goals.

Following the 13 Path

You are stable and secure in your actions and emotions. You may have mastered a sport or artistic skill that has taught you the benefits of constant and consistent practice to move you toward your goals. As you mature you find that your home and career provide you with just the foundation you need to continue pursuing your creative abilities.

You are certain in your direction and this brings respect and compliments from others. Your emotions are in balance with your thinking too; yet you do not let your abilities make you "different" from others in any way that might alienate them. The respect, courage and strength you have built are foundations for your intuitive and creative abilities as you express yourself in perfect awareness throughout your life.

Life Path 14

Your primary purpose is to learn to use your creative skills and emotional stability to accept personal freedom as you work patiently at achieving your goals. You will face a life of challenges to the freedom and independence that you seek.

You want to be free though you may become too dependent on those close to you. You must learn to balance your independence with respect and cooperation as you work with others.

As you grow your patience will become even more important for you. Remember that several steps are required to complete your goals and take the time you need to nourish and care for yourself.

The patience you will find will help you as you build a foundation for completing any task, and overcoming any obstacle. Your highly creative mind will serve you throughout this life. Your fine sense of creativity allows you to learn and master things that others can only dream of.

Assets

At your most positive you are exacting and you work at and follow each step through to its completion. You have grown accustomed to your body and you practice a regular discipline that keeps you healthy and wise.

Your imagination is eidetic and well refined; you have learned to complete the steps you need to create reality from your dreams. You are outgoing and interesting to many and your knowledge of many aspects of life means that others enjoy being around you too.

Talents

Your powerful and influential personality and analytical intelligence make you an excellent choice for working in many fields, but especially those that provide some stable foundation along with the possibility of travel and adventure. Promotion, sales, entertainer or publicist are excellent positions for you.

Following the 14 Path

You are confident, safe and comfortable with your own security and your ambition. You have learned to take one step at a time toward completing your goals and this works for you and provides a foundation for helping you pursue the next goal.

The creativity that you show becomes a part of your unique person and this provides inspiration and excitement that combines with your need for adventure. Eventually you come to love the sense of stability you have created and to use your powerful imagination for completing your unique life purpose.

Life Path 15

As a 15 your main purpose is to learn personal freedom, emotional control and independence while using your creativity to build confidence in yourself and others around you. You may feel a need to be a perfectionist and to reject your independence, but eventually you will learn to accept the goodness in all things and find your own inner spirituality.

Your creative and imaginative skills make you a great leader: original, innovative and with a desire to serve others. Beware of a tendency you may have to live in a dream or fantasy world that you create in your own head.

We have all come here to each with a mission and a need to experience things from a physical and experiential viewpoint, so you too must realize your purpose here is to serve; you do this best with both feet on the ground. You have learned to find your direction and you follow it with surety and content.

Assets

In your most positive self you are disciplined as well as creative. A visionary with idealistic intent, you have learned to focus and apply your creativity and confidence in a life that is both inspiring and uplifting to others. You lead them as if they are in your immediate family.

You have accepted your own imperfections and those of others around you and you have learned to work with the best of everything within your reach. Your drive for freedom has instilled a sense of unity and social reform that you have created in your own life. This serves as an example for others throughout your life as you pursue your purpose.

Talents

Your high ideals and need for change and unique and creative imagination make you best suited for careers of variety: acting, chef, interior decorator, coaching or artist are positions that will be most appealing. You are truly at your best when you help others. Work in a medical field such as healing and psychiatry will also be exciting for you.

Whatever your line of work you choose to follow you will bring an excitement and inspiration to it that is sure to affect others and give you a sense of fulfillment. Try to choose a field that allows you to express your creativity and you will surely be happy.

Following the 15 Path

You have learned to find the perfection that already exists in everything around you. You know that all is as it should be and that your dreams and ideals are working to serve yourself and others throughout your life's path.

You bring reality to your visions by applying your powerful creative imagination and your own standards of ideal freedom. You honor the freedom within yourself and you strive to teach and inspire others toward new and higher levels of communion.

You realize that we all have our own sense of right and wrong that is perfect in its own way. You follow your true purpose toward higher awareness as you follow your unique path.

Life Path 16

Your primary purpose in this life is to become accepting, open and genuine as you use the awareness and creative spirit within yourself to follow common sense toward a vision of beauty and happiness that you will share with others. Your creative powers are highly developed and you must be aware that those who are not as creative as you will not understand your pure vision.

Do not let any self-doubt stop you from being creative - you truly are an artist and visionary so you much learn to accept criticism and creative mental imagery. Do not let yourself become too separated from others or you will feel alone and apart from the true path that you seek.

Your strong personality is good at attracting others. This is a safe and nourishing place for you, but you must also remember how much you truly value being with others, especially your family. You seek a sense of perfection in beauty that you see all around you. This beauty is of the natural world and from your own imagination. Do not seek it too diligently and it will come to you.

Assets

In your most positive self you have learned to trust your inner vision and you enjoy sharing it with others in complete confidence. Your creativity is extremely well developed.

The trust you have put in yourself has spurred you on into a deep inner awareness of light and wisdom. You have learned to accept this wisdom and nurture it within yourself while you share it with others around you. A higher purpose is created when you open and accept others as you share with them on your own unique life path.

Talents

Your strong creativity, desire to work alone and need for intellectual knowledge make you most suitable for work in fields such as college professor, scientist or writer. Any position that involves knowledge and understanding of complex ideas will be an excellent choice: musician, chemist or similar jobs are interesting. You can be efficient and effective in most any field as you learn to use your powerful desire for learning.

Following the 16 Path

You have come to an understanding and acceptance of others for who they are, and of yourself. You have searched for a more perfect world and you now know that perfection is impossible; but this does not stop you from building your own ideal world from the reality that is all around you.

You are a distinct part of that world and your skills and abilities of creativity and inner knowledge have drawn you closer to those like you, with similar interests. You feel successful and inspired as you work toward fulfilling your life purpose.

Life Path 17

Your main purpose in this life is to realize your potential for success and power through generosity as you work with your creativity, abundance and inner spirit to formulate your own ideals. You have a challenge in this lifetime to accept your success with a spirit of sharing.

There is a need for you to put trust in your inner-self in this life. You must learn to be confident in your skills and creative energies that are highly developed, and to bring them forward into the Earthly world. You have a delicate and highly imaginative spiritual sense about you and you are known for seeking the truth. You like to get to the root of the mysteries of life by searching the depths of your own consciousness and within hidden knowledge. You have a fine intellectual mind that requires some time by itself for contemplation.

You are quite lucky and you seem to find or attract the money you need to live from your creative energy. You have a highly creative mind and a very strong intelligence: others may think of you as brilliant, and you are.

Assets

You are brilliant: intuitive, creative and expressive. You work at bringing these powers into alignment with your intuitive skills when you are at your most positive.

You have learned to place trust in letting the divine power of this world direct the things that happen in your life. This spiritual uncovering allows you to become powerful and abundant as you follow your path.

Talents

Your extremely high creative intelligence and your desire to be successful match you perfectly for distinctive positions such as researcher, business executive or airline pilot. You could also be happy in professional sports if you wish.

You have a mind for working with creativity and exploring your own intuition so you will also enjoy positions like promoter, civil engineer, architect or efficiency expert. You will eventually come to use your own mind matched with the power and success that you are imbued.

Following the 17 Path

You are expressive and creative as you work to create the successful reality that you imagine. You will come to learn the valuable lesson of trust, since you must be accepting of others on your way to the top. By doing this you will apply the unique powers of success and ambition matched with creativity, confidence and intuitive awareness.

As you learn to share yourself with others you have complete faith in your own abilities. You will learn to share what you have and you will realize when you may be trying to control someone, rather than helping him or her. You are known for being intelligent and deep and you have learned to inspire others along the way as you follow your unique path.

Life Path 18

As an 18 your primary purpose is to learn to be honest, open and confident with yourself while you use your creativity to become successful through your own principles and higher ideals. You have chosen a life of wisdom and of honesty that requires you to live up to the high standards and principles that you establish for yourself.

As you grow you will come to use the abundant power and energy that you have created in your life. You will be inspiring and powerful as a leader, but you must remember to temper any extremes that you may have.

Creatively you are full of ideas and imagination. You will learn to accept this creativity and the self-awareness that comes with it by getting past any feelings you may have of insecurity or self-blame. Your inner self-ambition will be rewarded and prove to be the one key to your successful drive and purpose.

Eventually you will come to define your own set of principles of justice and integrity that are the essence of your beliefs. These beliefs will generally steer you toward a generous and dedicated life of sharing and service to others.

Assets

In your most positive you are outgoing and successful, as an inspired and inspiring leader. Your desire to follow your own principles has created a life you enjoy and your deep sense of commitment, honesty and service is what you are known for. Others look to you for leadership and inspiration.

You are happy to share your success with yourself and others. You are creative and hard working, drawn to a humanitarian cause that helps others and yourself.

Talents

You are inclined toward success, creativity and inspired personal values; this makes you best suited to leadership positions: surgeon, government representative, attorney and manager are a few occupations that you may like.

You are constantly pursuing your desire to help others and you also have a deep appreciation of the arts. This suits you to fields such as actor, writer, artist or interior decorator. You generally need to be inspired creatively to feel fulfilled, and most importantly you must feel that you are of service to humankind.

Following the 18 Path

You have learned to come to terms with your principles and values. You can balance your own higher ideals with those of others as you work toward your goal and follow your own sense of justice. This has helped you to be inspired and to achieve leadership and awareness without sounding judgmental. You have learned to accept and understand others and to be compassionate as you receive new lessons and values while you follow your own path of creativity, power and success.

Life Path 19

As a 19 your primary purpose is to explore and become confident with your creative abilities as you teach, lead and counsel others. You will eventually learn to lead, teach and inspire others with your unique personality.

There may be many obstacles in your path, but you recognize these as opportunities to grow and learn. We all experience difficulties - however your life path is one of individuality and uniqueness. You are a pioneer who is concerned with serving humanity. You will eventually overcome your sensitivity and learn to accept that your integrity and wisdom may be different from others.

As you learn to explore this uniqueness you will come to value your skills and see them as tools of expression that will help you overcome any mountain in your path. Your inspirational energy and desire to assist others sets you apart from others in a way that makes you unique and different.

Assets

In your most positive sense you are known as an excellent problem solver as well as someone who attracts others to them. You have mastered your intuitive skills and project a confidence and awareness that creates a persona of leadership, responsibility and concern. Others will look to you for guidance and awareness.

Talents

Any type of creative service for others is one that will interest you: drawing, painting, writing and other artistic endeavors are most interesting to you as well as any form of healing arts such as massage, reflexology or counseling work. Teaching is another possible career field.

Following the 19/10/1 Path

As an independent and sensitive person, you are aware of the difficulties that may arise when others challenge your beliefs. You have come to learn to expose your sensitivities without letting the opinion of others upset you.

You must let your emotions and angers out for them to dissipate otherwise a strong temper and addictive behavior can be the result of unreleased feelings. Do not become too set in your ways and learn to accept others around you for who they are: unique and positive personalities.

You have learned to respect the ideas and thoughts of others as being different from your own. You understand your own uniqueness and your place in a world of differences. There is a fine balance between confidence and egotism: one that you have found and that is part of you throughout your life.

Life Path 20

Your primary purpose in this life is to learn to use your intuition as you establish a balance between responsibility and cooperation while you serve others. You may have a tendency to feel responsible for the actions of others, and for problems that have nothing to do with you. You will learn to define your own boundaries and find harmony, even though these boundaries will serve as a limit to those who work with you.

Eventually you learn to accept responsibility for your life and work with these issues rather than trying to help others so frequently. You have a great sensitivity toward others and an intuition about the work that you should be doing in this world. Feel free to support others that may need it, but most of all you must come to respect them because they may not appreciate you saving them, though they may appreciate your respect and honor.

These people may need to learn their own lessons before they are ready to be saved from the situations that they have gotten themselves into. You will serve your purpose best when you can learn to be detached from the situation, yet still have some empathy for the people involved.

Assets

In your most positive you know how much time to spend in every area of your life and you are free of any nervousness or worry. You have solved all the problems you have faced and you have established diplomatic relationships with the other people in your life.

You exude a strong sense of strength and endurance and others come to you when they have problems with cooperation in their life, because you provide the needed support that they demand. But you also respect your own inner needs and you accept both. You honor your inner intuition and you use it for the good of others throughout your life.

Talents

Your strongest talents are in those fields in which you can provide diplomatic and cooperative support as well as use your unique intuitive skills. You enjoy positions that center on working with people such as mediator, record keeper, insurance sales, counselor or healer.

Consulting jobs are also something that interests you. You enjoy family life and caring for your elders. You are happy to provide your talents as an assistant or support person as well.

Following the 20/2 Path

You must learn to accept yourself and your responsibility without worrying about what others think. Do not be so quick to give up your own time for anyone else; remember that you require time by yourself as well. You have established your own boundaries and you use them to help you set aside time for yourself and for others around you.

You have mastered your intuitive talents and you respect the deep inner knowing that guides you throughout your life. Others appreciate and respect you for your diplomatic tact and your cooperative support in mediating difficult disagreements. You are happy and joyful as you interact with others and you do not find faults as you follow your true path.

Life Path 21

Your primary purpose in this life is to learn to express your creativity and emotions while teaching, cooperating and supporting others as you inspire them to reach for their highest dreams.

You have many lessons to learn in his life, but your biggest one is to overcome any feelings of insecurity you may have about your own talents and creative energy.

You are very good at balancing your cooperative nature with your need for self-expression. You are powerful, and a pioneer at many things that you do. Remember that your uniqueness is what sets you apart and makes you innovative and ingenious at solving every problem that comes your way.

Your analytical skills are strong too. You will eventually learn to become more emotional in expression instead of attempting to think a problem away.

Be careful and wary of being judgmental and critical of others - they are unique and expressive in their own way too. A peaceful sense of cooperation will pervade over your relationships as you learn to be accepting and emotionally secure.

Assets

In your most positive sense you are creative, innovative and expressive in everything that you do. You are open and honest at being yourself and others look up to you highly. You enjoy working through problems by communicating and you especially like to give praise and offer words of kindness because you know we are all reflections of each other.

Talents

You are very creative and this means that you are best suited to positions that let you express yourself freely and often: jobs such as writing, advertising or promotion work well for you. You will always be happy in anything you do as long as you feel like you are inspiring and helping others to grow by doing the work that you do. As you persist and learn to accept feedback your confidence will help you achieve any goal!

Following the 21/3 Path

You have mastered the balance needed between you sensitivity and your creativity. You are learning every day how to be caring without hurting. As you express yourself openly and purposefully others are well aware that you are sincere, honest and real.

You have erased any doubt in your mind as well as any insecure feelings or self-criticism. Your open, honest, expressive creativity shines as an inspiration for those around you as you pursue your unique path.

Life Path 22

Your primary purpose is to accept your deep responsibility to helping others while you learn to be cooperative and secure in your ultimate goal of assisting others. You are extremely ambitious and have a desire to fulfill your destiny. You must remember that completing your goals require many small steps, each as important as the other.

You learn to accept any mistake as a valuable lesson as you continue along your path. If a project is a complete failure, reevaluate all of your steps along the way to determine which ones you may not have completed to your satisfaction. Patience becomes your strongest ally.

You have an inner need to find balance and fulfillment in your beliefs, ideals and values. This is not an easy task, but one that you are capable of with your strong analytical and intuitive mind. Remember to trust your inner-knowing as equally as your intellectual mind and you will find comfort and peace.

You will reach your highest potential as you learn to combine your inner balance with your outer desire to work as a team with others. Your mind, body, emotions, intellect and intuition must all play equal parts for you to feel whole and fulfilled.

Assets

In your most positive aspects you are patient and accepting, learning from any mistakes you may have made. You are good at giving and sharing with others and at finding time for your self to create your own inner balance. You solve each small problem as it comes along and this helps you to serve others with respect and kindness.

Talents

Your perseverance, strength and cooperative abilities are well applied in fields that support others such as teaching or organizing large projects. You also have analytical skill beyond most other people and this suits you to architecture or engineering careers.

Beneath your desire to be of service is a need for financial security. You work on fulfilling this before all others and it helps to provide you the footing you need to pursue even deeper goals.

Following the 22 Path

You are secure and balanced in your emotions. Your unique sense of patience teaches you to be careful and complete in working toward your goals. You have learned to accept any criticism from others constructively as you work with them to establish trust and respect. You have learned to give as much to yourself as you do to others and this helps to nourish your spirit.

Life Path 23

Your primary purpose is to realize your independence, honesty and desire to work in cooperation with others as you express yourself toward completing your path of freedom. You will come to feel your emotions and desire very deeply in this life. You must learn to accept them as your own in honesty and without regret.

You may have to face challenges regarding how well you work with others, but this will help you grow and mature. Learn to accept and work with others by expressing yourself, but remember to retain your own identity and to keep your independence.

There is a strong need in this life for you to learn and grow and you will seek out change, excitement and adventure frequently as you reach your full potential. The need for freedom you seek is the kind that requires an inner respect and knowing for your own self as an individual, rather than for freedom in a general sense. You want to be your own person and you need to be respected for that.

Assets

At your most positive you are free and unafraid of anything. You are confident in your skills of believing in yourself and others and the risks you take emotionally are required as lessons for you and others to learn. You truly experience everything and anything in all of its glory and desire with deep felt, passionate, balance and disciplined sincerity. Your passion for life is free of any boundaries and this suits you perfectly.

The lively and charming conversation and intellectual skills of your personality are highly sought after. Others may gather around you to watch and learn. You make every moment a new one and you may be known as the "life of the party" for this long party that you call life.

Talents

You have a desire to travel and see new things, especially if it gives you a chance to be communicative and work with others in a cooperative effort. Fields such as advertising, counselor or travel agent would be appealing to you.

Your interests are so wide ranging that you can be happy in most any field. You love experiencing new things and this leads you on many adventures. Any position such as trucking, shipping or airlines work will also provide you with the opportunities you need to travel. You will always find a way to earn a living and be happy and expressive at the same time.

Following the 23 Path

You are secure and comfortable in working with others toward a common goal. You have found the perfect balance between giving your time to others and using it for yourself. You have learned to focus on those tasks, which you need to finish, and this means that you are clear on what you want to accomplish, and the best way of doing it.

Even though you enjoy the drama of life you know that your honesty and sincerity allow others to get closer to you as you reach toward your goals and this lets you communicate better and be cooperative, creative and have fun as you pursue your higher purpose.

Life Path 24

Your primary purpose is to learn to value beauty as being perfect and complete in everything, in every respect, as you work through a practical step-by-step process in achieving responsibility and vision. You have learned to be patient and practical, taking each step one at a time toward your ultimate goal. Remember that you can rely on your intuitive self as much as your analytical self when working on a problem.

Your sense of beauty and perfection is heightened more than others so you must work at accepting others where they are. Everyone has their own level of attainment and your ideas will not always fit in with others. Do not let their opinions bother you either, but instead do what you feel is right for you by listening to your own heart - this will show you the right way.

Assets

In your most positive aspects you are kind and supportive of others who seek you out for your inner wisdom and kindness. You have become an expert at combining your intuitive vision with a practical, 'common sense' awareness of reality.

You have created a unique set of principles for your own life, which you live by, and you are accepting of the differences and principles of others. You're known for completing any task you set your mind to by following through one step at a time. You are kind, caring and giving to others, but you also appreciate receiving from others as you follow your unique path.

Talents

You enjoy positions that are of service to others: business advisor, teacher, poet or welfare worker is especially interesting to you. You are also strong at physical activity that includes beauty, you could be happy as a professional athlete or as a physical therapist or personal trainer. You have learned to be secure in your work as you pursue higher goals throughout your path in this life.

Following the 24 Path

You are calm, accepting and highly practical. You rely on your feelings and intuition when making a decision and this is helpful. You have learned to be patient as you work toward your dreams.

Your own unique principles are highly important to you, but you are careful not to impose your principles onto others, or to believe that they may live up to your high expectations. Life is as it should be, and the differences you see in others provides you with an understanding and sense of cooperation and purpose as you follow your unique path.

Life Path 25

Your main purpose in this life is to learn to be open and trusting while you find freedom as you work together with others toward achieving your goal. You have a strong desire for freedom in a personal sense, but your strongest trait is cooperation with others and finding an inner balance between giving to others and learning to find time to give to yourself.

You will come to trust and care for those in your life who share with you; and your overall need to be of service to others overcomes any obstacles in your path. Your need to be with others is highlighted by another need you have for privacy. You enjoy learning and studying alone and away from others, but be careful not to over-protect your feelings and hide them or you will create isolation in this life.

You will learn to share your deep emotions with those particularly close to you such as your friends and family and eventually with others that you meet. You have developed a fine sense of intuition based on observation that allows you to come to conclusions and decisions quickly and easily.

Assets

In your most positive you have a deep respect and trust for your own feelings, but you are also willing to share. You are adventurous and kind - exploring every path toward your own personal freedom and sense of independence. You have brought the balance of self and others into your life through inner freedom and a spiritual awareness of being. You find the time you need to serve others and yourself and you feel truly special in your place: a place marked by a spirituality and inner knowledge that serves you throughout your life on this path.

Talents

You function best in positions that let you feel that you are serving others, and that allow you to use your intense intellectual research abilities: scientist, engineer, naturalist or lab assistant are a few jobs you might find appealing. Your strong thinking makes you good at any position, but you do require the freedom to think for yourself and to go within or away to a private space from time to time as you work.

Following the 25 Path

You have learned to experience the perfect balance between sharing yourself with others and finding personal space for your own needs. You put a deep trust in those that you choose to share with and this helps you feel a connection and a sense of freedom within about who you are as a person.

You enjoy new adventures and new people, and you learn from the spiritual awareness you find while studying or researching. You have learned to be comfortable in all situations in your life and it is rewarding for you: you are truly following your unique purpose.

Life Path 26

Your life's purpose is to learn to understand power and success while you work toward a higher purpose that includes service and sharing with others. You may have many challenges in this life because this is a karmic number that requires learning wisdom and strength by exercising self-control and cooperation.

You have a strong desire to be successful, but first you must learn to accept the constructive criticism of others. Do not let others take advantage of you and try to find a balance in the acceptance of their opposition. You will learn over time that we each have our own agenda and that when others make comments and suggestions they are simply trying to help - take what they offer with acceptance, then look inside of yourself for the true answer.

Do not place too high of a value on being perfect and give yourself enough room to learn to form your own mistakes. You will come to work hard at achieving your goals and this will bring justifiable recognition from those you work with. You enjoy serving other people the most so you much remember that the true recognition you achieve is the help you have given to those around you.

Assets

In your most positive you have learned to work at what you do best: serving others, and this provides you with recognition and success as rewards for your higher ideals and values. You are balanced and secure in your relationship with others. You have learned to work with and through others without bringing up any control issues.

Talents

Your ambition and drive together with your high standards and desire to serve others suits you best for positions such as charity organizer, business executive, or working for an environmental company or as a volunteer coordinator.

You are capable of accomplishing anything you strive for and eventually you will learn to appreciate the recognition and respect that you are so frequently given. You also do well as a manager/supervisor or a reporter that exposes damaging or dangerous things in society for the good of humankind.

Following the 26 Path

You are driven, ambitious and successful at finding your place in this life. You have acceptance of others that is unprecedented, and you attract people to you who have the same desire to help and serve others.

You have high ideals. You have learned to accept criticism from others and to withhold any judgment that you may make of others. Because of this those who meet you look up to you with great respect.

Life Path 27

Your primary purpose is to trust yourself and to value honesty and cooperation with others as you come to a great spiritual understanding by serving others and living within your own higher purpose. To do this implies that you have a deep sense of trust in yourself, as well as in others.

You will learn to accept the opinions and criticism of others, but you will also learn that your own intuition and inner knowing are just as important. You will discover wisdom and a deep set of personal principles and values along the way. You must learn to integrate them into your own inner self by applying trust and intuition.

Eventually you will form your own spiritual laws that are unique and your own. You realize that even though the words of others are important, it is the inspiration and heartfelt emotions of your own soul that are correct.

Assets

In your most positive you are trusting of the spirit within all things and you have a deep realization of your own spirit as well. You are a natural teacher, a healer of those around you who know that your incredible commitment to humanity is genuine and one that creates feelings of awareness and fulfillment for you.

Talents

Your creativity and sense of cooperation suit you to positions of wisdom and understanding: counselor, teacher or engineer, or research scientist is a typical job that holds your interest. You also do well in a healing service to others such as massage, acupuncture or traditional medicine. You have a charm about you that attracts others and any artistic fields would also suit you: acting, painting or dance.

Following the 27 Path

Your own self-trust and spiritual leanings provide you with the skills you need most. You have learned to open your heart and your emotions up to the opinions and beliefs of others. This helps you stay balanced and gives you the strong sense of authority and inspiration that drives you on toward service to humanity.

You have learned to bring others into your life and this inspires you even more toward your fulfillment of serving others in cooperation, trust and honesty as you follow your own unique path.

Life Path 28

As a 28 your primary purpose is to learn to balance material success by applying your creative powers as you lead, inspire and serve others with your unique skills. You have a great mixture of influence, sensitivity to others and a refined sense of intuition.

You will eventually enjoy great success that will most likely be focused around your family or on serving others. You have an intense drive to be an expert and to have power and control as you work with others; however you must be aware that gaining this authority first requires that you learn to accept it from others.

Your strong, creative energies along with your desire to lead and be of service to others may cause you great conflict. Eventually you will master these feelings and prove to be a great leader, with strong teaching skills and an intuitive ability that is beyond most others.

Assets

In your most positive sense you come to be known as a great figure of authority and service in your community. You have become successful and independent; creative, unique and service to others around you brings respect. You are also known as highly intuitive.

Talents

Your most valuable talents are put to use in fields such as counseling or healing, or in your own business which provides service to others. Some occupational ideas include writing, teaching or leadership positions that allow you to be creative and inspire others to new levels of success.

Following the 28/10/1 Path

You have learned to respect the authority of others because you have proven that your own authority deserves the same. You have learned to express your emotions so that your anger and deep sense of independence is released and this makes you valuable to everyone you meet. This has created a security in you about financial issues and in helping others for the good of the whole.

You are a creative and powerful person. Your unique intuition is entirely unique and it helps you to discern the best means of handling any situation.

Life Path 29

Your purpose in this life is to learn to apply your intense creativity and sense of service while aligning your own ideals and principles to that of others for the betterment of the whole. You are on a mission of spiritual wisdom and because of this you may experience greater trials and challenges throughout your life than those that others may face.

Your strong emotional and intellectual creativity is the center of who you are. You will learn to take responsibility for your unique outlook as you come to appreciate your own independence and the balance defined by establishing your own boundaries. You work well with others and you will thrive on cooperation with others however sometimes they are seeking more from you than you expect.

Assets

In your most positive sense you are full of inspiration and you find pride in assisting and inspiring others as well. You naturally attract others who respect you for your skills at solving any problem creatively. You are known for persevering to the very end to finish a task and your open and sincere nature receives input directly from the Great Spirit itself, as you are truly on a spiritual mission in this lifetime.

Talents

Your talents really shine when you can express your creativity as well as enjoy the contact with others in fields such as hairdresser, construction work, entertainer, healer or counselor. Because of your strong energy you have no trouble attracting financial energy (money); which provides you with a sense of security and awareness that you crave.

You can express your inventiveness by following the path of a scientist, philosopher or psychiatrist. You may appreciate beauty as a poet as you are good at making revelations on your own.

Following the 29 Path

You have overcome any feelings of insecurity by accepting your talents and by resisting the opinionated statements of those who might not understand you. You are confident but not overly-aggressive.

You accept any creative challenge that presents itself and you are comfortable with your own unique, independent creative self: one that loves working with others to help bring about spiritual changes for the betterment of all of humankind.

Life Path 30

As a 30 your primary purpose in this life is to learn to express yourself to realize your sensitivities and use your strong intuitive powers to help others. You are highly sensitive and expressive, and so you must learn to follow the path of your intuition and inner drive as you continue along your path.

Your ambition to express yourself is compelling and gradually you will learn to overcome the challenges that come with the type of communicative work that you enjoy. You may need to learn to really express your deeper feelings, but as you grow and mature you soon become known as an excellent speaker – either to groups or to your family and friends.

Your emotional sensibilities are beyond most others, so try to be cautious when you hear comments or remarks from those that do not understand your deep feelings. You must learn to express yourself and open your inner desire and passions to others, by doing so you will release your inner powers of intuition that will guide you through any situation.

Assets

In your most positive you are energetic and understanding to everyone that you meet. Your service to others shines as a beacon for those whom you meet. You feel connected to everyone around you and your strong intuition guides you through honest communications with others.

You have learned to balance your emotions and desires with those of others and you have found an excellent balance between the two. You are happy serving the needs of others, and in realizing that you need time for yourself, for nourishment, growth and deep insights.

Talents

Your strongest talents are your deep inner knowing and your gift of expression. You enjoy inspiring and working with others so you will work best in the fields of sales, writing, acting or teaching others.

You also enjoy fields that allow you to express yourself while working with others in fields such as counseling, advertising, acting or other media positions. You can be very logical sometimes and these types of occupations may suit you as long as you are given the chance to express yourself at the same time.

Following the 30 Path

You are optimistic and non-judgmental in every aspect of your life - this helps you to accept others and your own sensitivities. You love to use your expressive powers to communicate with others and you are confident of your own self. This helps you in being direct, honest and straight-forward in all areas of your life. You have learned to accept the comments of others without internalizing them and your deep awareness of the mysteries of life hold you fascinated as you follow your own unique path.

Life Path 31

Your main purpose is to learn to express your emotions and creativity to reach your goals one step at a time, as you follow your unique path. Your unique combination of creativity and a need to express yourself allow you to build a foundation of stability.

Creatively you may face sensitive issues of self-worth and ego. Do not let the words of others bother you, and learn to be powerful through silence and in your action toward others. You will create a harmony that resonates through your being as you persist in expressing your highest creativity.

You will learn to establish the stability you require as you grow and mature. Eventually you come to realize that your steady efforts result in more ground gained toward your goals than short periods of intense energy. You are highly expressive and you love to work with others patiently and carefully toward a goal. You will learn to overcome any self-doubt you have as you mature.

Assets

In your most positive you have created a strong family and financial base from which to live your life. Others respect you and you have learned to balance your analytical mind with the intuition of your spiritual self. You are known for completing every task and your honesty and stability provide excellent examples to those around you. Their encouragement and security serve you throughout this lifetime.

Talents

Your varied skills of creativity, expression and intelligence make you a valuable asset in many fields: from real estate to engineering, physician to archeologist. Any type of work that provides you with a chance to communicate and support others such as coaching or teaching are also good choices. You may have to learn the lesson of patience but eventually you will achieve your goals.

Following the 31/4 Path

You are stable and secure in your actions and emotions. You may have mastered a sport or artistic skill that has taught you the benefits of constant and consistent practice to move you toward your goals. As you mature you find that your home and career provide you with just the foundation you need to continue pursuing your creative abilities.

You are certain in your direction and this brings respect and compliments from others. Your emotions are in balance with your thinking too; yet you do not let your abilities make you "different" from others in any way that might alienate them. The respect, courage and strength you have built are foundations for your intuitive and creative abilities as you express yourself in perfect awareness throughout your life path.

Life Path 32

Your primary purpose is to realize your independence, honesty and desire as you work in cooperation with others and express yourself openly while completing your path of freedom. You will come to feel your emotions and desires very deeply in this life; you must learn to accept them as your own in honesty and without regret. You may have to face challenges regarding how well you work with others, but this will help you grow and mature.

Learn to accept and work with others by expressing yourself, but remember to retain your own identity and to keep your personal independence intact. You may change as the demands of others in relationships influence you. You will come to learn that you are most happy when you are comfortable as your own person.

The need for freedom you seek is the kind that requires inner respect and knowing for you as an individual, instead of freedom in a general sense. You want to be your own person and you need to be respected for that. As you grow and become aware of your freedom you will find that you have changed, by owning up to your fears and doubts, to become the disciplined, expressive and uniquely cooperative person that others respect and seek out.

Assets

At your most positive you are free and unafraid of anything. You are confident in your skills of believing in yourself and others and the risks you take emotionally are those required as lessons for you and for others to learn from.

You truly experience everything and anything in all of its glory and desire with deep felt, passionate, balanced and disciplined sincerity. Your passion for life is free of any boundaries and this suits you perfectly.

Talents

You have a desire to travel and see new things, especially if it gives you a chance to be communicative and work with others in a cooperative effort. Fields such as advertising, counselor or travel agent would be appealing to you.

Your interests are so wide ranging that you can be happy in most any field. You love experience new things and this leads you on many adventures. Any position such as trucking, shipping or airlines work will also provide you with the opportunities you need to travel.

Following the 32 Path

You are secure and comfortable in working with others toward a common goal. You have found the perfect balance between giving your time to others and using it for yourself.

You have learned to focus on those tasks which you need to finish and this means that you are clear on what you want to accomplish and the best way of doing it. Even though you enjoy the drama of life you know that your honesty and sincerity allow others to get closer to you as you reach toward your goals and this helps you to communicate even better. You are creative and you know how to have fun as you pursue your higher purpose.

Life Path 33

Your primary purpose in this life is to feel confident in yourself while expressing who you truly are, while appreciating and inspiring others with your unique vision of kindness and acceptance. You may be extremely sensitive and so you may have to guard against letting the thoughts and comments of others bother you.

You can let your feelings be known and express yourself to the highest degree - so remember to do that as much as possible and do not ever hold your deepest emotions inside. You may have a need for the approval of others, but eventually you learn to find the answers to your questions inside of yourself.

Your unique principles and values are important, but remember that they are for you alone - do not try to impose this perfection on others or try to hold them up to your standards; they have their own values. Search instead for the wisdom of the divine that is a part of everyone and every thing.

You have chosen a unique path that requires you to learn a sense of expression within your own self before you practice it in the outside world. You are meant to inspire and teach others with compassion and understanding, and you must become aware that the kind and loving way that you express to others is important.

Assets

Your powerful expressive energy helps you to serve others in your most positive aspects. You are trustworthy and willing to help others who are attracted to you for the compliments and kindness that you give so freely.

You have learned to accept yourself exactly the way you are, and to accept others for what they are. Even though you seek out truth, beauty and fairness in all respects you can discern the goodness in others and it shows as you truly enjoy spreading happiness to others throughout your life.

Talents

Your high ideals and fantastic expressiveness make you an excellent worker, you especially enjoy fields in which your intuition and your love of working with others through self-expression shine through: architecture, childcare, teacher and doctor are particularly appealing.

You have a high regard for beauty and understanding so working in the arts as a dancer, actor or artist or writer will be interesting for you too. Remember to be realist and down to earth while you stay positive and upbeat and you will truly enjoy yourself in any line of work.

Following the 33/6 Path

You have learned to be positive and accepting as you work with others. You have learned also to express your deepest emotions to those around you and you realize that your own unique ideals are truly yours.

You follow a sense of fairness in all that you do, but you are careful not to apply that to everyone else in your life. You are an excellent teacher, even of other teachers. You must be willing to give your time and love to others. You are also aware that all things happen in their time and you exhibit patience and understanding while working toward your own unique path.

Life Path 34

Your main purpose is to learn to express and trust yourself and your feelings with patience and understanding as you work with secure and orderly principles to find your own mystical path. You have strong desire to explore the spiritual side of this life and this may lead you into New Age studies, but your practical sensibilities may try to stop you.

Eventually you will learn to bring these true feelings into balance and you will find that a secure and stable family provide you with the foundation you need to let go and explore your spiritual desires. Your basic skills work best when you are expressing yourself and so you may have to learn to accept your own feelings and emotions before you can be completely honest and open in your personal communication.

You have a brilliant mind and an intelligence that is refined and focused on any task that you choose. Combined with your self-expressive nature this makes you an honest, trustworthy and candid personality that others enjoy being near.

Assets

In your most positive sense you are orderly, practical, expressive and spiritual. You have found the perfect balance between all of these traits: one that allows you to trust in your own spirituality and the divine spirit within everyone.

You have learned to accept your life with patience and understanding in a step-by-step process. You spend most your time in pursuing activities to help you grow as a person and discover even more of the mysteries of life. Your expressive nature is well received by all and your deep insights cause others to look to you in respect. You are following your path with superior intent and focus.

Talents

Your expressive nature and spiritual discrimination make you best suited for writing, advertising or lecturing as a teacher or professor. You certainly have the strong desire to learn and you may even complete your doctorate if you set your mind to it. Positions in business, and especially metaphysical areas really intrigue you: film production, accountant, medicine, nutritionist, herbologist are some that will be exciting for you.

Following the 34 Path

You have learned to balance your need for stability with your spiritual searching and you have combined them into your own unique path. You have found a deep trust in others around you, including yourself. This sense of trust has help you overcome any feelings of inferiority and you have learned to put this to use as an expressive talent; as a teacher or counselor to others who may come to you. You have found the perfect stability in your family life and have come to share your feelings with honesty and heartfelt emotion as you follow your own unique path.

Life Path 35

Your main purpose in this life is to learn freedom and expression as you accept and achieve success by exercising self-control and honesty. You are strong as an authority and a leader and this provides you with the skills you need to succeed.

You love responsibility because it gives you even more chances to express your incredible abundance. Be wary and stop yourself from becoming a "show-off" as you learn to accept the power of your success: others might not be as fortunate.

You should also guard against letting success seem like it is not something that you deserve. You do truly deserve it, as well as everyone else on this planet and you must learn that lesson first before you continue to become successful on your own. You will do best to find a service or quality in yourself that you can use to help bring about a something for others that is needed and that will benefit others. As you come to create this reality from your dream you will find a higher purpose awakened within you that will justify your work.

Assets

In your most positive sense you are full of self-control and power that you enjoy sharing with others. Your intense expressiveness in communicating makes you a powerful and respected leader that everyone looks up to. You work and strive to complete the tasks you start and even though you are sensitive to the feelings of others, you also put your foot down to demand the things you need to get the job done.

Talents

Your most useful skills make use of your strong intellectual powers and your generous and caring acceptance of others, whom you lead with service and authority. Politics is one field that suits you, as well as supervisor, teacher, executive manager or nursing or medical positions. Travel and the ability to be free to exercise your freedom are also important so you may find that sales or being an entrepreneur (and wearing all the hats) is what you most prefer.

Following the 35 Path

You recognize and are aware of the power and success that you are capable of and you feel best as you share it with those around you. You feel that you are fulfilled and you focus on the task at hand until it is completed.

You are fully compatible with your own expressive and sensitive abilities and your need for self-discipline: this has created a balance in your life that prevents you from depending on anyone else. You are in complete control and the successes you find bring you support as you use your powers for a common good while you pursue your life path.

Life Path 36

Your main path in this life is to learn to be honest, sincere and confident in expressing yourself with trust as you accept others with integrity and understanding. You will learn to trust yourself to the deepest level and to be honest and open in expressing your feelings throughout this life.

You can do this by first listening to your intuition and inner awareness, and then by ceasing to blame others (including yourself) for failing to live up to your high standards and ideals. Remember that this is the practical world and that no one is perfect - though we are all doing the best we can to follow our own paths. Each of us is different and unique - and perfect in our own way.

You are a valuable and good person, so take the time to become aware of this as part of yourself before you make a judgment that may be based on the comments of others. Be careful not to create ideals and values that are impossible to attain.

As you learn and grow in this life you will come to even out your sense of perfection by looking within for the caring and conscious feelings that you have for others, and by applying those feelings toward being an example that is inspiring and uplifting to those around you. Your intuitive awareness will become developed as you slowly learn to communicate in complete and open honesty.

Assets

In your most positive you are extremely intuitive and aware of the path you have chosen. You have overcome any insecurities about yourself and you forgive the problems and mistakes of others. You live according to your own ideal principals, but you have learned to stop judging others and to accept everyone with compassion and wisdom. This allows you to work in cooperation with others toward a higher purpose.

Talents

You work best when you can use your intuitive awareness and sense of connectivity: working with others in positions such as counseling, interior designer, psychiatrist or welfare or charity worker. You also could do well as a teacher or in a similar field such as publishing. Your high standards also suit you for being in business as an adviser or in a position working with others.

Following the 36 Path

You have learned to balance the time you need for yourself with the time that you give to others in compassion and open expression. Over time you have discovered that if you stop making judgments that you will feel much better and others will not be so quick to judge you. This means that you have conquered all of any insecurities you may have had and provides you with the perfect solution for expressing your feelings of wisdom and inner knowing to others as you follow your own unique path.

Life Path 37

Your primary purpose in this life is learning to trust the goodness and kindness within everyone, including yourself as you come to accept your distinct and powerful creative energies to build a world of unity and understanding. You are extremely sensitive and introspective as you work alone to gather the knowledge you need to use your imagination and creativity to it's fullest.

You trust the knowledge of your own spirit as well as the kind found in books and this intuitive promise helps you throughout your life. Your beliefs in friendship, honesty and sincerity are deeply felt and very important to you. Any betrayal by others may spark a desire to retreat inside of yourself for comfort and protection.

You have learned to accept this inner searching as something that creates balance and nourishment for your soul. Overall you have come to trust your own intuition with perfect acceptance. You eventually know and trust the spirit of this world for creating all situations (good and bad) which help you grow.

Assets

As a positive and powerful person, you are confident and trustful of the actions of others and of the Great Spirit that rules us. You recognize every mistake as a lesson and you are comfortable in expressing your feelings and desires to others.

This creates a trust and common understanding that is significant and important to those around you. Your positive connection to the Earth allows you to use your creative and healing energy to it's highest level connecting you through artistic expression to the essence of healing energy that allows you to serve others gracefully and intuitively.

Talents

Your most valuable talents are in healing and expressing yourself creatively. You enjoy the artistic fields such as art, music and drama and you are inspired most by nature. Writing and literary courses are another possibility as they allow you to work from within to express the true nature of your own soul.

You also enjoy teaching and helping others as you progress into a deeper spiritual sense later in your life. You have no strong desires for financial success, so money is unimportant to you, except for providing a means of shielding you from those parts of society that you are uncomfortable with. As you experience trust and express yourself fully you find that you have the financial means to pursue any goal.

Following the 37 Path

You are a highly intuitive, creative and expressive person who trusts in the nature of spirit. You have learned to accept the insecurities and fears of others that may attack you, because you find an equal amount of people who respect and admire your unique creative powers, and your thirst for knowledge and awareness.

You are comfortable with exposing your feelings and this helps you to explore an inner-awareness that others may only dream about. You no longer hold past experiences and feelings of disappointment, as you become aware of the lessons that we are all learning. You forgive those around you and your deep connection to the mysteries of this world hold your attention and you learn to heal and create the life that you were born to follow.

Life Path 38

Your purpose in this life is to learn to accept material success and power while you express your creativity by helping others with your unselfish and compassion. You are intensely mentally creative and you have strong drive for acceptance and success in helping others.

You have learned to control yourself and you are not so concerned with directing or containing others around you; this creates an environment of inspiration, respect and power that allows others to look up to you for leadership. You must channel this energy into assisting others in finding their own uniqueness.

You are sensitive but you eventually understand that your own powerful and driving need to be the best and your unmatched creative skills are very different from others. You learn that your expressive skills and ambitions help you achieve your goals over time.

Assets

At your most positive you are a masterful and powerful leader of others, as you work to be of service to others. You apply your creative skills and your ambitions with great effect, and others are naturally attracted to you for your confidence, sensitivity and creative talents. You serve to help empower others and your success established you as a respectful and helpful person throughout your life.

Talents

You are most talented as a natural leader where you can express your creativity and authority to solve problems that others may face. Occupations such as politician, teacher and entrepreneur provide you with the best environment for your own growth. You ultimately are successful at anything that you choose to do, but be wary of managing your own finances. Apply yourself and your skills to serving others and to serving as an example for others and you will truly shine.

Your Life Path As A 38

You have learned to be a leader by setting an example for others to follow. You realize that you can influence others best by creating your own best self. You are confident and sure of your own skills and this allows you to be intuitive and creative as you work toward achieving success in working with others.

You let others receive the attention that they deserve as well, and you have come to terms with any insecurities that you have felt in the past. You realize that each person is successful and unique in his or her own way.

Life Path 39

Your primary purpose is to learn to be cooperative and creative, working with a team as you pursue your vision of a higher good. You are an extremely creative individual. You are even more expressive and creative when you are working with others and especially when you are working on a goal of helping humanity while you also grow and learn.

You may feel overwhelmed with your responsibilities but eventually you learn to balance your creative energy with your need to express yourself in cooperation with others toward a higher goal. You will achieve your ultimate goals when you remember to give as much time and help to yourself as you do to others.

The projects that inspire you the most involve service to others. You feel a deep need to serve humanity, but especially if it involves a way for you to express yourself.

Assets

At your most positive you enjoy expressing your creativity as much as you respect the opinions and comments of others. You hold the perfect balance between forming your own opinion and listening to the opinions of others.

Your deep feelings for others assists you as you work together creatively on solving any task at hand. You are strong as well as impressionable; you are able to balance your own opinion with the comments of others. You have a deep feeling and respect for those you have a relationship with.

Talents

Your strongest skills involve expressing yourself to others especially when you use your creative imagination to work with others in solving a problem or situation that affects others. You enjoy positions such as sales, entertainment, teaching or speaking in public. You also enjoy fields that let you help others as well as communicate with them such as counseling, therapy and healing or medicine (especially when you are working as part of a team to help others).

Following the 39 Path

You are secure and accepting of others around you, especially those who may criticize you because they are different from you. You are aware that you must forgive and move on, but you do not need to forgive continually.

It is better to be supportive and let others learn to follow their own way. You are happy, creative and expressive: letting your imagination open you up to new and interesting people and places. Others enjoy working with you because you are supportive and because you also stand up for your own rights and what you believe in. Your path is one of joyful co-creation and expressive wisdom - you are happy to share your joy and your life with others as you follow your destiny.

Life Path 40

Your main purpose in this life is to learn patience and stability as you apply your distinct intuitive abilities to the causes of service that affects others. You are an extremely organized and secure person, though when you are younger you may not always feel so sure of yourself.

You will learn to be patient and to take things one step at a time toward completing your ultimate goals. Your strength and perseverance are compelling to those around you; even though you also have a sensitivity and strength that lets you quietly analyze and interpret any situation with your superior intuitive skills.

As you learn to complete your goals one task at a time you build a foundation of loving and secure energy that will surround you throughout your life. Your analytical skills are profound too, though as you grow you eventually learn that the wisdom of your intuition is even more accurate. You gradually pay even more time and attention to exploring your inner knowing.

Assets

At your most positive you thoroughly prepare and overcome anything you set your mind to; you have learned to act with internal feelings as much as with your intellectual thinking. You are known as an honest and faithful person, committed in your goals and desires. You apply yourself with an unwavering commitment through any battle of willpower or emotional strength, as you are patient and practical while pursuing your goals.

Talents

You loyal, patient and practical ideals and talents make you best suited for business positions such as accounting or finance. You also do well in engineering and technical fields that allow you to mix your creative side with your analytical skills.

You especially enjoy helping others and providing care and assistance to them in medical positions such as therapy or nursing. Your perseverance helps you achieve any position or job that you set your mind to.

Following the 40 Path

You trust yourself and your own intuition and are quick to make decisions when you need to. At other times you have leaned when to exercise patience and take your time in intuitively listening to your inner self for an answer. You are good at accepting a commitment and your honest and trustworthy nature make you attractive to others. You have learned to accept the ideas and views of others as much as yourself and this earns you respect and deep appreciation as you follow your own unique path!

Life Path 41

Your primary purpose is to learn to use your creative skills and emotional stability to accept personal freedom as you work patiently at achieving your goal. You will face a life of challenges to the freedom and independence that you seek.

You want to be free though you may become to dependent on those close to you. You must learn to balance your independence with respect and cooperation as you work with others. Your fine sense of creativity allows you to learn and master things that others can only dream of.

As you grow your patience will become even more important for you. Remember that several steps are required to complete your goal and take the time you need to nourish and care for yourself. Your extraordinary analytical mind may get in the way of your creativity so be sure to follow your muse and your highly creative mind will serve you well throughout this life.

Assets

At your most positive you are exacting and you work at and follow each step through to its completion. You have grown accustomed to your body and you practice a regular discipline that keeps you healthy and wise. Your imagination is visionary and well refined and you have learned to follow the steps you need to create reality from your dreams. You are outgoing and interesting to many and your knowledge of many aspects of life means that others enjoy being around you too.

Talents

Your powerful and influential personality and analytical intelligence make you an excellent asset in many fields, but especially those that provide some stable foundation along with the possibility of travel and adventure: marketing/promotion, sales, entertainer or publicist are excellent positions for you.

Following the 41 Path

You are confident, safe and comfortable with your own security and your ambition. You have learned to take one step at a time toward completing your goals and this works for you and provides a foundation for helping you pursue each new goal.

The creativity that you show becomes a part of your unique person and this provides inspiration and excitement that combines with your need for adventure. Eventually you come to love the sense of stability you have created and to use your imagination for following and completing our unique life purpose.

Life Path 42

Your primary purpose is to learn to value beauty and cooperation with others as you work through a practical step-by-step process in achieving responsibility and vision. You have learned to be patient and practical, taking each step one at a time toward your ultimate goal. Remember that you can rely on your own intuitive self as much as your analytical self when working on a problem, and that the partnership and sharing you find while working with others is a powerful inspiration to you.

Your sense of beauty and perfection is higher than most others so you must work at accepting others where they are. Everyone has their own level of attainment and your ideas will not always fit in with others. Do not let their opinions bother you either, but instead do what you feel is right for you by listening to your own heart.

You are an outgoing, family person who is stable in your awareness of the cooperation and acceptance of others. You are good at feeling your own feelings, and you have learned that your emotions are expressive and powerful in their own nature. As you become honest and true to yourself you will express what you truly feel and those around you will appreciate you with respect and dignity.

Assets

In your most positive aspects you are kind and supportive of others who seek you out for your inner wisdom and kindness. You have become an expert at combining your intuitive vision with a practical 'common sense' awareness of reality.

You have created a unique set of principles for your own life, and you are accepting of the differences in principles of others. You have come to appreciate the beauty of working in cooperation toward a common goal.

Talents

You enjoy positions that are of service to others: business advisor, teacher, poet or welfare worker is especially interesting to you. You are also strong at physical activity and you could be happy as a professional athlete or as a physical therapist or personal trainer.

Your strong need for organization and stability make you a dependable and excellent worker in any type of position that requires attention to detail. You have learned to be secure in your work as you pursue higher goals throughout your path in this life.

Following the 42 Path

You are calm, accepting and highly practical. You also rely on your feelings and intuition when making a decision and this is helpful. You have learned to be patient as you work toward your dreams.

Your own unique principles are highly important to you, but you are careful not to impose your principles onto others, or believe that they may live up to your high expectations. You have a true organized vision of truth and beauty that is uniquely your own. You are aware that life is as it should be, and the differences you see in others provides you with an understanding and sense of cooperation and purpose as you follow your unique path.

42, Saturday, November 22, 1890, Charles de Gaulle
42, Wednesday, November 27, 1957, Caroline Kennedy

Life Path 43

Your main purpose is to learn to be patient and understanding while you work with secure and orderly principles as you express and trust yourself to find your own mystical path. You have a strong desire to explore the spiritual side of life and this may lead you into New Age studies, but your practical sensibilities and desire to be outspoken may stop you. Eventually you will learn to bring these true feelings into balance and you will find that a secure and stable family provide you with the foundation you need to let go and explore your spiritual desires.

Your basic skills work best when you are expressing yourself and so you may have to learn to accept your own feelings and emotions before you can be completely honest and open in personal communication. You have a brilliant mind and an intelligence that is refined and focused on any task that you choose.

As you grow and learn to honor the foundation that you have established for yourself you will come to explore your imagination and spiritual pursuits to an even higher order. Your path is truly a unique combination of patience, intent, knowledge, expression and spiritual searching.

Assets

In your most positive sense you are practical, organized, orderly, somewhat expressive and spiritual. You have found the perfect balance between all of these traits: one that allows you to trust in your own spirituality and the divine spirit within everyone.

You have learned to accept your life with patience and understanding in a step-by-step process. You spend most of your time pursuing activities to help you grow as a person and discover even more of the mysteries of life.

Talents

Your organized and expressive nature along with your spiritual discrimination make you best suited for writing, advertising or lecturing as a teacher or professor. You certainly have the strong desire to learn and you may even complete your doctorate if you set your eyes on it. Positions in business, and especially metaphysical areas will really intrigue you. Film production, accountant, medicine, nutritionist, herbologist are some that will also be exciting for you.

Following the 43 Path

You have learned to balance your need for self-expression with your spiritual searching and you have combined them into a stable search for your own path. You have found a deep trust in others around you, including yourself.

This sense of trust has helped you overcome any feelings of inferiority and you have learned to put this to use as an expressive talent: as a teacher or counselor to others who may come to you. You have found the perfect stability in your family life and have come to share your feelings with honesty and heartfelt emotion as you follow your own unique path.

Famous 43 Life Path Birthdays

Sorry, there are no famous birthdays available at this time.

Life Path 44

Your primary purpose is to learn to build a secure foundation based on self-control, personal responsibility and a step-by-step approach in support of others as you accept your desire to be successful. You have a strong desire to be successful however you may lack the patience required to follow through.

Eventually you will learn to take each phase of a project one step at a time toward completion. It will be easier for you to accept this slower, more controlled process if you take extra time to listen to your intuitive sense. You have strong mental, physical and emotional skills, so you must learn to be intuitive and become more aware of your inner voice.

You are searching for true stability in this life: both in the family and home as well as within yourself. This is not always an easy task and one that requires you to be open and expressive with your feelings and desires. As you become aware of your emotions you will also need to balance them with your intellectual thinking patterns and your own mind. You will work through these issues and eventually come to find the value of communicating with others.

Assets

In your most positive you are extremely focussed and persistent at completing tasks. Your intellectual and analytical skills are also beyond most others and you must understand that your goals may be beyond the abilities of those around you.

You have learned to be patient and persistent at following through and completing your tasks one step at a time. There is a strong need within you for security in your family and this has allowed you to establish deep ties to those around you: you are known as being loyal and highly dependable in any situation. You have recognized the value of your intuition and combined it with your highly developed business skills to create a life of security, stability and success that you desire.

Talents

Your highly developed organizational and intellectual skills along with your drive for success mean that you enjoy positions that let you stand out. Financial analyst, manager, or business owner positions will interest you most.

You have a high drive to achieve financial success as well and you enjoy the security of a corporation in which to work. Statistician, computer programming or real estate may also appeal to you.

Following the 44 Path

You are positive and focused at achieving your goals. You have learned to overcome your fears of commitment and any desires to control others. You follow your intuition with depth and understanding, and this has helped you to open to new ideas and become flexible. You have learned to accept the responsibility of the success that you have achieved and this leads to respect and support from others around you as you follow your unique path.

Life Path 45

Your primary purpose in this life is to create a secure foundation while you build your own personal freedom through self-control, and fulfill your goals of finding a higher ideal. You will learn to accept that completing your goals will require a stable one step at time process. This process will require that you accept your own personal inner-knowledge and wisdom as you work your way toward a higher spiritual ideal.

You will eventually learn to contact our intuitive self and listen to its signals and warnings that will lead you to truly know which path to follow. You are highly sensitive and you love to teach and serve others, but you must learn the working of your inner self, before you can be an example for those seeking your inspirational help.

You also enjoy spending time with your family and friends, since it provides you with a secure and stable environment from which to live and you generally feel out of place without it. You will eventually find patience too, as you search the spiritual working of the higher source.

Assets

In your strongest aspects you are an inspirational and charming friend to everyone. You are patient and methodical in applying your discipline toward completing any task that you set your mind to.

The higher wisdom you seek is important and provides the basis of your personality. You have found a personal freedom that others can only dream about and you are content and joyful in this approach toward life.

Talents

Your strong intellectual skills and desire for adventure make positions such as surgeon, entrepreneur, or foreign correspondent exciting for you. You also enjoy inspiring and teaching others. Positions in teaching or communicating with others such as a counselor or public service worker will also be fulfilling. You will learn to follow your own inner knowledge throughout this life, as you are patient and secure in yourself.

Following the 45 Path

Life Path 46

Your main purpose is to explore your unique creativity and inner beliefs and apply their powers within a stable and practical framework for building an awareness and acceptance of others as you pursue your ideal vision. You will learn to be patient and understanding as you build toward your goals; each step on the path is another step closer to your destiny.

Starting from a solid foundation and working toward your goal will help you achieve anything you set your mind to. Your highly creative powers, personal vision and strength set you apart from others.

You are aware that your visionary outlook is not shared by many, but your own insight and intuition into the ways of this world help you to understand, overcome and accept others with compassion. Your creative energies will eventually lift you to your higher purpose.

Assets

At your most positive you are known for your strength, confidence and for your vision of intuitive awareness that inspires others. You have built a successful foundation of integrity and those around you look to you for a source of justice, idealism and insight.

Talents

You are most talented in occupations that allow your creative ability to flow and your sensitivity and intuition to be exercised. Your strong analytical skills and sense of purpose make you suited for business positions that require responsibility and management.

Jobs that require attention to detail such as architecture, accounting and nutrition and artistic fields are also appealing. Counseling is a possibility when you have overcome your emotional sensitivity.

Following the 46 Path

Your patience and security is a model for others. Don't worry if you do not achieve everything you are looking for right now, take your time and learn to accept the work you are doing now. It is an important foundation for the rest of your life and you should be aware of it.

You will gradually overcome your hypercritical sense and realize that the problems and challenges of others are the quickest way for you to grow. You have learned to focus your creative energy and direct it at the task at hand until it is complete - slowly you are building a better environment for others and this brings you great happiness.

Life Path 47

Your primary purpose is to learn to trust in your strong creative abilities as you use them to build a foundation of inspiration and imagination while you work with others. You will come to face many tests in this life as an intensely creative person. You will eventually learn to accept your own ways of learning and creative thought as unique and successful; do not let the words of others get you down - they do not understand your need for openness, trust and sincerity.

Exposing your creative self and your creations is not an easy process and one that you must work at. You will overcome any insecurities you may feel, usually by retreating to your own personal sanctuary for rest and protection. You have a deep respect for beauty and harmony and you need a solid foundation from which to begin your growth.

As you work through each issue and you are patient with the lessons you are learning at each step you will come to share your inner self even more with those around you. Do not hesitate in sharing your creative abilities and do not let any misspoken words bother you - you are a truly unique and extremely creative person who is different and many others may not be able to enjoy your empathy and openness; that is ok. Others you will meet will eventually fulfill your desire for sincerity trust and stability.

Assets

In your most positive sense you are inspiring to others around you as you work creatively with trust and confidence in your own talents. You are aware of the spirituality in all of us and this awareness combines with your strong intellect to allow you to use your creativity for the betterment of the world.

Talents

Your talents are used best in fields that let you combine your intense mental creativity with your imagination. Fields such as journalism, advertising, research or business are some of your best choices. Other types of healing work in the medical fields as a physician, as a minister or spiritual advisor or counselor are good choices. You enjoy working toward a higher goal best and you will be most happy in a position that does not restrict you creatively.

Following the 47 Path

You can find solace in your own world, but you are most happy when you are around others. You have learned to express yourself with trust and openness. This allows you to use your imagination and intelligence efficiently and with joy. You are patient when things do not go your way and you realize that the sensitivity you feel toward others is because of your own deeply felt emotions.

You respect and learn from what others say, but this does not effect your ability to be yourself and to be creative, or your desire to find others that think like you. You are uninhibited and when you feel a need to get away you are happy to retreat to your own inner imagination rather than seek out other more damaging forms of escape.

Famous 47 Life Path Birthdays

47, Wednesday, December 22, 1948, Steve Garvey

47, Monday, March 22, 1948, Andrew Lloyd Webber

Life Path 48

Your purpose is to accept your unique creativity while working together with others as you follow through on your plans of creating a successful and safe world for you and everyone else in the world. You will seek stable foundations throughout this life, and you have a desire to be successful in all that you do: a driving ambition that helps you to achieve any goal you set your mind to.

You will be known and respected for your strong leadership and your cooperation with others on completing tasks as a team, creatively and with expressive communication. Eventually you will learn to accept your own power and creative skills. You hold the magic ability to bring your dreams into reality through natural order and your strong analytical skills.

Assets

At your most positive you have learned the value of patience and the process of completing your goals one step at a time. You have also come to understand your family by being compassionate and empathetic to their needs. You are most happy when others recognize you for your creative brilliance and your ability to work with others easily.

Talents

Your strongest talents are your ambition and desire to be successful linked with your strong sense of creativity and teamwork. You work best when pioneering or forming new and unique businesses of your own.

Any field that lets you use your analytical skills such as mechanic, engineer or computer programmer will suit you well, as will the fields that let you be creative and expressive such as entertainer (as a musician or choreographer). Sales and teaching positions will also be attractive to you, but especially so if they let you be the leader and remain independent as you work.

Following the 48 Path

You are patient and in complete control and balance of your life. You have learned to let responsibility take care of itself for those around you who may always be asking for your help.

Overall you are successful and powerful; but most of all you have learned to be thoughtful and forgiving in your relationships. You are well aware of your own authority and you do not use it as a status symbol.

When you set your own goals you are good at following through with them step-by-step until they are completed. You have learned to be wary of financial issues and you use each goal as a stepping stone to the next on in line; this foundation sustains you throughout the pursuit of your life path.

Life Path 49

Your primary purpose in this life is to accept stability and creative expression as you work with your own principals and ideals of helping others through wisdom and a strong sense of organization. You may face strong personal issues of self-doubt and awareness that will require you to reach inside for the inner wisdom and knowing that allows you to feel closer to the divine.

As you come to allow this awareness within it will provide you with energy and ambition as well as the intuitive insight that you need to work with in this lifetime. Remember that you must work on your goals and tasks one step at a time toward completion.

You must exercise patience while working toward your higher ideals. You have many plans and desires, but you must work through each of them to fully realize the lesson before moving on to the next.

Assets

In you most positive you have learned to combine your strong intuition and higher ideals with your organizational/analytical skills and your expressive nature to create and environment that encourages success at every step.

You are confident and secure in your own goals and beliefs and you have learned to respect the feelings of others. You are patient kind and accepting and you have learned to enjoy each step along the way toward the ultimate goal of following your own unique life path. You have come to find a true sense of stability and security while allowing your creative and deep intuitive skills to also shine through.

Talents

Your strong sense of integrity and personal values along with your unique creative communication skills give you the abilities you need to succeed in any type of business position: administration management or entrepreneur jobs will hold your interests best. Your patience and the diplomacy you have learned in dealing with others means that you would be happy in helping others toward a higher path as a counselor or in a teaching position.

Following the 49 Path

You have found security and stability as you learn to show patience and wisdom in completing your task. You are happy staying in one job or house for many years and this provides you with the foundation of security throughout your life.

You accept the deep intuition, wisdom and higher principles that you follow with careful care, and you have learned to withhold any judgment of others, which only leads to judgment of yourself. The balance of inner intuition and your desire to serve others along with your creativity and leadership skills is a perfect combination. You come to accept who you are and others respect and admire you for everything you do to better humankind as you follow your unique path.

Life Path 50

Your primary purpose is to learn to express your imagination, creativity, communication skills and profound intuition to the highest while you pursue truth and beauty on your unique path of personal freedom. You have a personal charm and strength that makes you highly attractive to others.

You do not like routine things and you constantly search for anything new or interesting. The most important aspect that you seek in this lifetime is personal freedom. Your strong desire to find freedom within may cause you to feel out of place at many times in your life; remember that you are as unique and valuable as everyone else and do not let the comments of others hold you back.

You will grow and eventually find the freedom you are looking for within yourself. Your unique and deep intuitive skills are way beyond most others and when you combine these with the creative essence and imagination that drives you it is a powerful and positive combination. You are most likely a visual person who thinks in pictures and your highly developed imagination provides you with a lot of stimulation.

Assets

In your most positive sense you are a brilliant and imaginative communicator, known for being disciplined yet also happy-go-lucky, there are not many things you have not tried in this life. Your deep intuitive skills show you the way and help you to make important decisions. You have come to accept these skills for the truth and speed with which they made themselves known. You have found the freedom you desire on the inside and this gives you pleasure and a sense of serenity.

Talents

You have a great imagination and creative abilities that are beyond most others; your communication skills are also well developed. Fields such as sales, promotion and advertising will appeal to you. Creative positions let you express your desire for beauty: writing, scientific study and interpreter, or entrepreneur will suit you well. Always remember to follow and study your intuition as you pursue your path.

Following the 50/5 Path

You have learned the meaning of personal freedom and you integrate it into your life in all respects. Your skills at being imaginative and creative are put to best use because you have chosen an occupation that fits your skills.

Your family is a stable foundation that you enjoy and respect; it provides you the one necessary sense of security that you require. You find new and adventurous things and people at every turn and yet your inner sense of discipline means that you are usually known for bringing your dreams into reality. The freedom you desire has been found within and you express it every day as you live your life and follow your own unique and highly creative path through this life.

Famous 50 Life Path Birthdays

Life Path 51

The primary purpose of your life is to deal with your desire for personal freedom while learning confidence, self-discipline and creativity to accept and help others as you follow your path. You are full of creativity and sensitivity. Because of this you will have to learn to accept your deep sensitivity and the comments/criticism of others.

Remember that since you are highly creative that others may not understand you completely. Learn to take their remarks in stride and forge ahead with confidence, and imagination toward your goal of a higher ideal. You are a visionary, but you must work a little more at learning to bring your rich dreams and visions down into physical reality.

As you apply and focus your discipline on any task you will be able to achieve anything you set your mind to. You will learn to use your creative skills as tools toward applying your unique imagination. As you do this you should also keep in mind your intense demand for personal freedom and independence.

Assets

In your most positive you are an inspiring, creative pioneer - ready to forge ahead through your fantastic worlds of imagination and reality. You set high goals and you achieve them by applying your confidence, creativity, imagination and patience. You have found the unique personal freedom that belongs to you alone and you are joyful and fulfilled in exploring every aspect of it as you follow your path, which also includes sharing and acceptance of others.

Talents

Your strong creative powers and desires for adventure suit you best for jobs such as acting, archaeology, poetry or singing! You enjoy beauty too. You love to work with others especially when you feel that you can inspire them in defining new and important goals: jobs such as counseling, coaching, interior decorator, or children's author will also be interesting to you.

Following the 51 Path

You have learned to apply your unique high ideals without being judgmental. You are happy and confident in your creativity and awareness as you work toward embodying your idealistic future.

You have learned how to judge an appropriate course and the right people to spend your time with, and you are safe in knowing that you are cared for as you work extremely hard at accomplishing your goals. You have learned to accept yourself creatively and you do not let the words of others stop you at all as you follow your unique path of destiny.

Famous 51 Life Path Birthdays

Life Path 52

Your primary purpose in this life is to learn to use self-discipline to work through cooperation with others toward personal freedom, trust, and openness as you follow your path of spiritual awakening. You are a humanitarian with desire to serve mankind in the highest sense.

Before you do this however you may have to face many hardships and personal challenges to your sense of personal freedom and your ability to trust others. You have a deep need for privacy, and independence but you must learn to trust yourself and others or you may get stuck being introspective and isolated through many times in your life. Learn to walk up to people, address them and have an open conversation.

Your powerful inner wisdom and spirituality is what keeps you interested as you have a love of nature and the country that inspires you from within.

Assets

At your most positive you are confident and secure in trusting others. You enjoy collaborating on projects for the good of humankind and your kind, patient nature makes you an excellent work partner. You have learned to value the inner-spiritual and intuitive self that you have discovered. This lets you trust in its all-knowing goodness and it works well for you. It helps you find the acceptance and awareness that inspires you to work with others and share your imagination with everyone. You have found self-independence and you are joyous and happy in serving others.

Talents

Your strong sense of service for others as well as a sense of independence means that you work best in fields such as writing, research, statistical analysis or technician. Your strong imagination and sense of the idealism will provide you with skills for working as an accountant, surgeon or as an engineer in a hi-tech field such as computer programming or mechanical/chemical engineering. Your strong peaceful mind and supporting skills will help you achieve your goals in any arena.

Following the 52 Path

You have learned to enjoy being with others as much as you like being alone in nature. There is a perfect balance in your imaginative skills and you desire to learn about spirituality, just as there is between your sense of cooperation and your introspective need for space. You have found the tradeoffs and benefits of each of these and you are truly living in a world that lets you celebrate the mystery of life as well as the talents of working with a team toward a common good!

Famous 52 Life Path Birthdays

52, Tuesday, August 22, 1939, Carl Yastrzemski

Life Path 53

Your main purpose in this life is to learn to overcome your sensitivities as you build a personal freedom and awareness by using your self-discipline and authority to find success.

You will have many personal battles in this life related to a balance between your strong ambitions to be successful, your need for personal freedom and your innate desire for self-expression.

You will eventually learn to balance all of these issues and come to understand the nature of your expressive powers. To learn these you must follow your heart and be willing to share all of your feelings and emotions with others as you come to trust your true feelings.

Do not worry about the comments of others - they may not feel things as deeply as you do and you must accept them as they are. You must also accept those who will admire you as a leader and authority on many things. You must remember that there is a higher powers serving us and that for you to find complete fulfillment you will have to act and work with an integrity that honors that commitment.

Assets

In your most positive aspect you are self-disciplined, expressive and confident in your attitude. You have an incredible imaginative mind and high intelligence. You eventually share everything with others as you pursue the path of a powerful leader who respects his/her workers as much as they respect and admire you. You have learned when you can open yourself completely to others and when to be more protective. Your genius at completing your goal leads to success and generosity every step of the way along your unique path.

Talents

Your strong analytical skills and leadership abilities make you an excellent candidate for a position in supervision, consulting or engineering. You also enjoy sharing your wealth with others and being highly successful at what you do. Your intense drive and ambition means that a job as an entrepreneur or business owner in a capacity that provides service to others is most fulfilling. Or you may also find happiness as a civic leader, in politics, or as a superintendent or executive officer.

Following the 53 Path

You have become aware of your strong ambitious drive and you use it to serve and honor others. You have found self-discipline that drive you forward in your desire to complete your goals. You are conscious and capable of handling the comments/criticisms of others, and you have learned to respect and honor your own feelings for what they are. You live to share and serve others as you follow your own unique path of success and authority based on communication and imagination.

Famous 53 Life Path Birthdays

53, Sunday, September 22, 1957, Nick Cave

Life Path 54

Your life purpose is to learn to overcome any impatience, critical thinking and your potential to overwork yourself, as you build personal freedom and awareness by feeling compassion and making use of your intellectual intuitive talents as you serve others and achieve your own goals. You may have a tendency to be overly giving and kind, or moody and uncertain in your behavior as you learn to accept your patience, responsibility and sense of organization, and your strong need for personal freedom.

You learn to respect your need for organization and order and you apply it powerfully and fully within your own unique framework that includes compassion for others, as well as freedom and variety for yourself. You learn to accept your feelings to help and serve others, as well as your own need to establish a sense of freedom and independence for yourself.

You may sometimes feel moody and too self-centered to accept the views of others, but these feelings will not last long. You eventually come to realize that your kind and giving ways are what others appreciate in you more than anything else. Though it may seem like there is too much to get done, your ability to focus, organize and patiently complete any task you set your mind to helps you to persevere over any obstacle in your path.

Assets

In your most positive aspect you are compassionate, inspirational and passionate in your desire to serve humankind. You are able to overcome any uncertainty or moodiness with your talented intellectual skills. Your patient, practical and deep responsibility to others motivates you toward your own unique path of personal freedom, practicality and tolerance and compassion for others.

Talents

Your strong sense of service to others and powerful intellectual abilities steer you toward a career in public service or the medical field where you feel you can make the biggest contribution. You could also find a niche in the music field, or as a publisher. Your desire to stay focused and organized adds tremendously to your skills in a career such as engineering, economics or management.

Following the 54 Path

You are conscious of your capable desire to serve humanity in some way and you have learned to direct your skills of organization, responsibility and personal freedom toward this end. You have learned to control any moodiness and self-doubt and focus your energies on a deep responsibility and a persevering attitude to help others. As you mature your intellectual abilities come to the front and provide you with the skills you need which go along with the emotional strength you will find to accomplish your goals. You learn to combine your love of others with a uniquely independent and responsible ability to care for others, as you follow your own unique and highly individual path.

Life Path 55

Your primary purpose in this life is to work with your issues of extreme desire for personal freedom and your need to express creativity as you follow a path of adventure and self-discipline, toward completing your goals. Your need to find a sense of personal freedom is prominent - and you will not stop in your search until you feel that you have found it.

Remember that the freedom you seek may not always be in the outside world but may be inside of yourself. As you release your creativity and learn to express it with an intuitive insight you will learn that the sense of freedom you desire must find a space in your heart before it can come to rest.

You also have a strong desire to travel frequently and you would be happiest if you were always on the go. This energy means that you feel most fulfilled when you are experiencing something new and different. Try to keep your mind focused on the essential goals you have set in order to complete them.

Assets

In your most positive you are brilliant and imaginative, highly creative and interested in being unique and intuitive. You combine all of these skills with a balance of perception that suits you well.

Your analytical skills are also well developed, and you are known for being honest and ethical in everything you do. You can lead others without controlling them and you soon gather respect and admiration from those that you are near. You are energetic and fulfilled, happy as you pursue your unique personal path.

Talents

Your strong creativity, imagination and desire for change and travel suit you to fields such as sales, advertising or travel agency work. You have a natural talent as a researcher and you would enjoy being a writer or librarian. You have ideals and values that are beyond most others and you may enjoy being involved in church or other moral atmospheres.

Following the 55/10/1 Path

You have learned to apply self-discipline and follow a focused plan toward completing your goals. Your highly developed imagination is important, but you have learned to listen to your intuition too. As you grow and change you will find that your strong mental abilities and high ideals will suit you well toward completing any task as you follow your goal toward your unique and individual life's purpose.
